READY FOR EMERGENCY

Air Raid Precaution Unit Formed In City

Edmonton's Air Raid Precautions Committee has been formed as a result of a series of meetings between civic officials and representatives of city organizations, Mayor John W. Fry announced Friday.

The Edmonton set-up is based on plans formulated by the Canadian and United States government and recommended for use in cities. The British air raid precautions system is the basis of the scheme adopted here with certain modifications to meet the needs of Canadian cities.

Mayor Fry will be chairman of the committee, and City Commissioner R. J. Gibbs vice-chairman.

Eight sub-committees have been established under the Edmonton scheme, Mayor Fry said, and chairmen for the committees selected. These chairmen will call meetings of associations interested in air raid precaution work and standing committees will be set up at these meetings. A general meeting of the central committee will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 10, to report organization progress.

Situation In Malaya Now Grave

By The Canadian Press

Japan's invasion hordes stormed within 18 miles of Singapore today, hurling 90,000 troops into a bloody, climactic assault to snatch at the $400,000,000 "crown jewel" of Britain's far Pacific strongholds.

As the battle thundered nearer to the mile-wide Johore Strait, separating Singapore Island from the Malay peninsula, British headquarters indicated the gravity of the situation.

"In the centre there is contact with the enemy about Kulai," a communique said tersely.

CAUSEWAY IS MINED

Kulai, 18 miles north of the great naval base, lies on a broad highway leading to the Singapore Causeway at Johore Bahru. The Causeway already has been mined for demolition.

Across the South China sea, Netherlands troops were reported locked in bitter fighting with other Japanese invaders in four widely-separated zones of the Indies Archipelago—at Balik Papan, on the east Borneo coast; above Pontianak, chief port in west Borneo; on the Minahassa Peninsula, in northern Celebes Island, and around Kendari in southeastern Celebes.

"Fighting continues not only near Balik Papan but in the town itself," a Netherlands bulletin said.

Indian troops previously had de-

An Editorial

Social Security Now!

THE present session of Canada's Parliament has been assembled for the righting of wrongs. It has been called to muster all Canada's force against the ulcer in humanity's body called Hitler. It has been brought together to iron out the inequalities in the war effort and to equalize the burden of national service.

The program of righting wrongs will not be complete nor will it be effective unless it includes a revision of our Old Age Pension system, which constitutes an injustice against our old folk, and unless it also includes the establishment of a broad social security plan, the lack of which constitutes an injustice against every young man and woman in Canada.

There is no need to argue the need for social security. The experience of other nations, as well as that of our own, has abundantly shown how necessary are unemployment insurance, retirement allowances and health insurance.

This, according to the Dominion Government's own statistics, is what every young Canadian faces today:

Of all Canadians at the age of 25, after 40 years, 36 per cent of them will be dead; one per cent will be well-to-do; four per cent will live comfortably; five per cent will be gainfully employed; 54 per cent will be entirely dependent upon friends and relatives.

A social security plan would change those figures. Health insurance would promote greater attention to health and thus cut down the mortality rate. Retirement insurance would remove the spectre that lurks for every man in the thought that 54 out of every hundred of his kind will be destitute at the age of 65.

The foundation of this plan in Canada is peculiarly urgent now because at no other period in Canada's history has the time been so opportune for its inauguration.

Employment is at its peak. Wages are relatively high. Whatever contributions wage-earners were required to make to build up funds for these social security services could be subtracted almost painlessly from present salaries.

Huge reserves could be created, without hardship to anybody, to provide a cushion against the dislocation of industry and employment when the war is over.

Nor need Canada look far for valuable examples in this matter.

We have already shown on this page an outline of the excellent system of social security enjoyed by New Zealand.

The United States, just across our border, has an even more advanced system. Every conceivable form of disability is covered in the American social security legislation. No innocent man can be subjected to any misfortune which the state does not correct and provide against.

The amount of the Old Age Pension varies in different states, but in no state is the age limit anywhere near our own limit of 70 years, nor in any state is the monthly pension so small as our own miserly $20.

The freedom of the individual American state, in this respect, provides a valuable hint for those in Ottawa who would amend our own clumsy and unjust Old Age Pensions Act.

Old Age Pensions there are joint undertakings of federal and state governments. The states fix the regulations, the federal authority supplies part of the money. The federal legislation is merely permissive. It does not attempt to limit, within reasonable bounds, the generosity of any state in fixing age limits and pension amounts.

Canada's Old Age Pension Act should at least permit exactly the same freedom to provinces which have been moved to reduce the pension age limit to 60 years and raise the amount from $20 to $30 per month.

If Ottawa is interested in righting wrongs at this session of Parliament, here is a burning wrong to be righted, a shameful wrong against lives given in the building of this country.

Social security for the aged and social security for the young is provided in United States, New Zealand, Australia and Great Britain. Canada cannot afford to continue to lag behind. It is on the program of every country which expects to gain victory through justice.

The time to start this program and establish this justice is NOW!

Fair Deal For Labor Under Coal Policy Is Urged Here By M.L.A.

A national coal policy, greater protection for workers under the Compensation Act, a fair deal for labor from industry in war production, elimination of "blood money" for arms manufacturers and a revised monetary system to provide interest-free money on a scale commensurate with production were urged by Gordon Taylor, Social Credit M.L.A. for Drumheller, in his address moving acceptance of the speech from the throne, in the legislature Friday afternoon.

"If our forces are going to get the equipment required then the banks must supply the money, interest free, to put the factories to work and to make the equipment for the forces. We have the materials, we have the men—let the Bank of Canada supply the money," the Drumheller member said.

Mr. Taylor was followed by Gordon Lee, S.C., Athabasca, who seconded the motion to debate the speech from the throne.

Following the two addresses on the throne speech, the act to amend the Solemnization of Marriage Act came up for second reading. This bill was sponsored by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and relief.

SCORES SYSTEM

Declaiming against the system under which the war is financed on money borrowed from the banks and on which interest is paid, Mr. Taylor said, "I wonder what our sailors, our soldiers and our airmen will say when they are told that after they win the war they will have to come back and pay for it!"

Hansell Urges North Highway Via Edmonton

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—(CP)—Appointment of a new commission to study and facilitate the building of a highway to Alaska by way of Alberta was urged in the House of Commons Thursday by E. G. Hansell (PC., Macleod).

He said the former proposal to build the highway through British Columbia was out of date for military reasons, but an inland route, linking up with a road through Siberia to the Behring Strait from Russian bases would make the enemy encircle and outflanking of Japan possible.

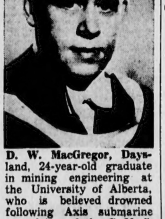

IMPORTANT MATTER

Mr. Hansell spoke in the Throne Speech debate and said the proposed highway to link the United States with Alaska by way of Canada was a matter of importance to Alberta.

A commission had been appointed

Believed Lost

D. W. MacGregor, Dayland, 24-year-old graduate in mining engineering at the University of Alberta, who is believed drowned following Axis submarine torpedoing of the C. N. S. passenger ship Lady Hawkins 12 days ago. The missing youth is a nephew of E. C. Matthews, 9844 113 street.

Three Subs Seen Off East Coast

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Three and perhaps four Axis submarines were sighted today close to the New Jersey coast, the United States third naval district headquarters announced.

The announcement followed upon a naval warning to all ships and shore stations of the locations where the submarines might be found.

The area given meant the undersea raiders were within sight of Atlantic City and Cape May, N.J.

One position placed a U-boat at 35 miles east of Cape May, another about 20 miles off Atlantic City.

A third position put a submarine about 180 miles off Cape Charles, Va.

MOSCOW, Jan. 30.—(CP)—Cavalry-paced Soviet troops who struck through fortified positions across the Donets Basin operated today only 70 miles from the big bend of the lower Dnieper river, menacing German winter lines clear to the sea of Azov.

Nestled on the west bank of the river bend is Dnieprepetrovsk, Russia's 11th city, which fell five months ago to the Axis armies of Field Marshal Evald Von Kleist after the defenders had dynamited its $100,000,000 power dam.

The Soviet information bureau disclosed the strategic situation in announcing the recapture of Lozovaya, midway between the Donets and the Dnieper, through a 93-mile advance in which it said 25,000 Germans were killed in 10 days of fighting.

ROUT THREE DIVISIONS

Three German divisions—the 68th, 257th and 298th—and three regiments—the 236th anti-tank, the 169th infantry and a Hungarian cavalry regiment—were "utterly routed." (At full strength these would represent about 50,000 men.)

Among battle trophies listed were 658 field guns, 40 tanks and armor-

Already the attackers have disrupted the Japanese effort to operate on the west coast of Celebes Island, gain control of Macassar Straits and thence push forward in an effort to control the Java sea, and complete encirclement of Singapore.

In view of these developments alone, it would not seem too bold to credit the Allies with a strategic success. The balance of power in this area now tends to change unfavorably for the Japanese.

The enemy is now on the threshold of Singapore and the British have prepared for the probable siege of the island.

British and Australian forces on the peninsula itself are now fighting only a delaying action, but they are outnumbered and the Japanese hold mastery of the air. A retreat across the narrow Johore Strait to the defences of the island itself is the next likely development.

This may take some time. The defenders on the mainland now have shortened and compact lines. The infiltration tactics which the Japanese used so successfully in the jungles no longer hold good nor is it possible to make flank landings from the sea to the rear of the British lines.

AERIAL SUPERIORITY

On the other hand, the Japanese have the advantage of good roads, over which their mechanized units can operate to the best advantage.

FRONTAL ATTACK MADE

Bengasi Forces Withdraw Before Heavy Axis Drive

CAIRO, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The sudden sweep of a strong Axis column around Bengasi, and heavy frontal attacks by "greatly superior" forces compelled the Indian defenders of the Libyan port to withdraw after putting up a stubborn fight, British headquarters announced today.

A Middle East headquarters communique declared the converging attacks by the superior Axis forces, which included tanks, necessitated the second British withdrawal from Bengasi in less than a year.

However, the Middle East headquarters said British patrols in the Mauss area, 70 miles southeast of Bengasi, forced Axis patrols to withdraw after a brief brush.

The Axis forces, which advanced on Bengasi from the south last Wednesday consisted of two mixed columns, both including tanks, Middle East headquarters said.

GIVE GROUND

Deploying "greatly superior strength in this area," a communique said, the Axis troops forced the 7th Indian Brigade to give ground despite its strong rearguard action.

"In the meantime, to the east of the escarpment, an even stronger enemy force which on Jan. 28 had reached Regima (16 miles east of Bengasi) also pressed on and by nightfall established itself across the coast road of Bengasi," the communique said.

Alaska Gold Mining Industry Now Has Back To Wall

Industry Has Produced $500,000,000 In Metal: Faces Priority Problem

By EDWIN E. DOWELL

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 30.—(BUP)—Alaska's gold mining industry stands today with its back to the wall. The industry, which has produced $500,000,000 worth of gold since the territory was bought from Russia, faces a critical priority problem.

Development and exploration has ceased, mainly because operators fear the future.

Placer operators have been assured by the government that they will get "at least an even break" with other industries not directly concerned with national defence.

EXCLUSIVE

But they share their A-10 preference rating with governmental divisions, educational institutions, railroads, telegraph companies, steamship lines, radio stations, newspapers and other key non-defence industries. Unless their orders are filled, they must suspend operations.

PROTECTION FOR FLEET

Fishing, the territory's most important industry also works under a handicap, but the United States navy has promised protection for the salmon fleet and the canneries in southwest Alaska.

About two-thirds of Alaska's mineral output comes from placer mines. The simple method of panning, used by the individual prospector, has almost disappeared. Eighty per cent. of placer gold is recovered by dredges and the balance by hydraulic methods.

Industry spokesmen said they could not obtain materials and replacements for damaged machinery and that heavy federal tax burdens and other problems may force a complete shutdown.

There is no accurate figure on the value of minerals the territory can supply from areas already developed, but estimates place it at about $500,000,000.

The area containing the principal placer gold workings is roughly in a line midway through central Alaska from Nome east. The layout raises difficult supply problems.

Mayor Fry said Friday that while Edmonton is not considered a vulnerable area by the military authorities at Ottawa, it was deemed necessary to have an organization set up here so that, in case of an emergency, the city and its citizens would be fully protected.

"There is no suggestion at the moment of pressing for equipment until the vulnerable areas have been taken care of," Mayor Fry stated. He added that the committee would keep careful check on the situation and would take all steps necessary to adequately protect Edmonton in the light of future developments.

Fair Deal For Labor Asked On Coal Plan

Speaking on the coal situation, Mr. Taylor said that this season about 150,000 tons of Drumheller valley coal had been shipped to Calgary, while facilities were available to handle 650,000 tons.

He quoted figures to indicate that though the Dominion government might pay a $2.35 per ton freight subvention on Alberta coal, shipped to Ontario, it would result in turning out $4,900,000 in wages which in turn would be used to meet taxes, war savings, etc., on 650,000 tons.

At the same time $6,575,725 would be saved in U. S. exchange which would be needed to buy an equal amount of Pennsylvania anthracite coal.

Stating that he rejoiced that the Alberta government proposed to review the workmen's Compensation act during the coming year, he said, "When a man is injured in industry, then industry should keep that man until he can once again take his place in industry." He said that light work was impossible for a miner to find or to do after he had spent most of his life in rugged underground labor.

LABOR TO BE PART

Discussing labor and the war, the member said, "Labor has shown that it is most anxious to do its part in winning this war and the difficulties our federal government has had with production have been caused by the employers and not the employees."

He declared that Kirkland Lake miners in their strike had observed the letter of the law but that the operators had refused to meet their representatives and even defied the government of the Dominion.

Speaking of the lack of equipment which had caused losses by the Allied armies, he said, "In my humble opinion, the reason why was because our forces lacked proper equipment, and truly there were excuses for this in the early stages of the war. But, Mr. Speaker, after two years of war, our munition plants are still not working full time."

"If our forces are going to get the equipment required, then the banks must supply the money, interest free," he said in giving his views on means of stepping up production, "to put the factories to work to make the equipment for our forces. We have the materials, we have the men—let the Bank of Canada supply the money."

He decried the profits of suppliers of war equipment stating that "Even our M.P.'s do not know the cost of a Bren gun."

"BLOOD MONEY"

"While hundreds of our boys fight in the front lines for $1.30 a day, while our farmers grow wheat below cost, while our common people dig down to the last dime to help win the war—the money grow rich through "blood money" and our senior government allows it."

He concluded by asking for economic security in the post-war "new order" and congratulated the government on its steps to bring this about.

"The control of money and credit must be taken out of the hands of private monopolists and put back into the hands of the representatives of the people, where it rightfully belongs," he declared.

"Then we will have a money system that may be regulated for the benefit of the country as a whole," he added.

"It is impossible to have inflation or deflation if the available money is kept equal to the available goods and services," he said, answering what he termed, "The bogey of inflation."

Jap Invasion Fleet Facing Annihilation

brought the Japanese transport fleet within immediate range of Allied sea and air forces and proved rather conclusively that the enemy is acting with frivolous recklessness. It also proves that the Allies should not be underestimated.

But despite enemy losses and the knowledge that the Dutch already had destroyed all oil refineries and installations between Balik Papan and Semarinda along the East Borneo coast, the Japanese landed at Balik Papan. They presumably might to establish a supporting port for their sea and air forces in Balik Papan Bay to use as a stepping-stone in seizing control of the Macassar Straits and eventually the Java Sea.

Netherlands Indies troops in the Balik Papan area are offering strong resistance. The Dutch were not able to maintain resistance on Tarakan Island for a long period of time because they were almost surrounded, but Balik Papan they can move inland and keep harassing the Japanese.

The Japanese landing at Kendari on the east coast of Celebes occurred almost simultaneously, exposing the enemy's strategic plan. Considering this landing in connection with heavy air bombardments on the west coast of New Guinea, it is apparent that the Japanese hope to seize as much material as possible throughout the archipelago.

LENGTHEN FRONT

By occupation of Rabaul on New Britain Island the enemy hopes to control the entire Australian Sea east of New Guinea, it is apparent. Simultaneously, Japanese armies driving westward against Burma are lengthening their front a few hundred miles to join the Chinese front, which already has existed for many years. This front, stretching east to Manchuria, totals more than 5,000 miles. I believe the Japanese strategists will discover they've bitten off more than they can chew.

The strength of Japanese forces against Singapore is estimated at five divisions of the best troops Japan can put into the field. It is clear that British forces, which have to resist this attack, urgently need reinforcements.

Japanese air bombardment of Sumatra possibly presages an enemy attempt to occupy points on the Malacca Straits and complete the encirclement of Singapore. Increased fighter plane strength also is necessary as British forces can meet this new threat.

Singapore Deaths

SINGAPORE, Jan. 30.—(AP) — The Ministry of Information disclosed last night that 105 persons were killed and 243 injured in Japanese raids on Singapore Wednesday.

Today's War Moves

Above all, they have air superiority. Their bombers and fighters can work over short distances from the captured airfields, the British having only one important field still in their possession.

If the British are forced back on the island, they should be able to withstand a lengthy siege. It is true that Singapore's defenses were planned mostly against attack by sea. The 15-inch coastal guns pointed over the water to blast hostile warships will be useless against the swarming Japanese on the peninsula.

However, there are other artillery emplacements on the island, on its north coast as well as on the east and south. How strong they are will not be learned until they are put to the test. It is certain that the British will defend Singapore to the last. Its fall would be more serious than that of Hong Kong, which was not as strongly fortified.

HAS WATER SUPPLIES

The lack of water supply hastened the fall of Hong Kong. This should not be true in the case of Singapore. According to British sources, the contingency has been foreseen. Even though the source of supply from the mainland is cut off, Singapore has two big reservoirs, each two miles in length and fed by large catchment areas. Rainfall is sufficient to keep them full, and the British estimate that they should be ample to supply the civilian population and the garrison for a long time.

The siege of Singapore will be the most important action of the Japanese war to date. While the Japanese have nullified its use as an allied naval base for the present, its loss would nevertheless be a serious setback. Its facilities would give the Japanese a tremendous advantage in the struggle for Sumatra, Java and Borneo. The whole allied position would be weakened.

Singapore is important for another reason. If Britain can hold it, it will be the springboard for the great allied offensive when Japanese superiority on the sea and the air has been overcome. Held by the Japanese, it would make the start of that offensive so much harder.

Child's Skull Is Fractured When Hit By Truck

ly appeared in the centre of the street running towards the east curb. He said that he applied his brakes and swerved sharply to the right, but the front fender of the vehicle struck the child and knocked her to the road.

Bleeding from the nose and mouth, the injured girl was carried into a nearby store and then taken to the hospital in a Smith's ambulance.

REPORTED MISSING

Due to the unconscious condition of the girl police were unable to establish her identity until 7 p.m. when Mrs. Gren phoned headquarters and reported that her daughter was missing. The discription given by the mother tallied with that of the child in the hospital. Upon being informed of the accident the mother proceeded immediately to the bedside.

SIDE GLANCES . . . . . By Galbraith

"Oh, yes, she wants to help in the war effort, but she's waiting for the organization of some unit with a uniform she likes!"

Tars "Most Courageous People" States Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Home from the war for a rest yesterday came the AP's Larry Allen, wearing the British naval cap which bobbed up with him during months of battle in which British naval men dubbed him "the darling of the Mediterranean Fleet."

Unscathed by Axis bombs and shells which he had faced in many hours of danger on the decks of warships, Allen was often close to death.

His last hair-breadth escape occurred Dec. 16, when he was aboard the British light cruiser Galatea, sunk by three torpedoes from an Axis submarine off the Egyptian Mediterranean coast in the darkness just after midnight. He fought through thicky oily scum from the sunken ship 45 minutes before being rescued. He came home on leave today on a Pan-American clipper.

"The morale of the British fleet is excellent," Allen said. "They are the most courageous people I have ever seen."

The failure of the Italian navy in the Mediterranean, Allen added, wasn't due to lack of good ships or good war material.

"They have an excellent ship fleet, but they won't come out to fight," he said.

But the Germans are still formidable, Allen said, and he expressed belief that "their morale is still excellent."

Transfer Planned For U.S. Forces

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(CP)—The United States embassy announced today arrangements are being made to allow Americans in Allied forces to transfer to United States armed services.

"Service departments of the United States government and of other interested governments," an embassy statement said, "are now collaborating to the end that those Americans now serving with Allied forces who wish to do so may transfer, under certain conditions, to the armed forces of the United States as soon as transfers can be arranged without unduly hampering the war efforts of the united nations now combatting the Axis powers."

Germany Now "Free To Act" Hitler States

BERLIN, (from German Broadcasts), Jan. 30—(AP)—Hitler in the first speech since his declaration of war against the United States told his people today that "America's war with Japan made us free to act" and "now we shall see what our U-boats may achieve."

He said "I do not know whether the war will end this year," adding "we are armed against everything, from the north to the south."

Hitler contended that on the eastern front the armies of the Reich are on the defensive against the weather—not the Russians, and claimed that the front there has finally been stabilized.

RUSSIAN WAR

He said of the Russian war that far that "in the east we fought a struggle which one day will be the glory of our nation."

Cheers greeted his boast that in North Africa Field Marshal Erwin Rommel "turned around the moment that our enemies thought he was beaten and drove the British before him."

"The most difficult part is behind us," he asserted.

He contended winter had been the great hope of Germany's enemies in the east, but that this hope never would be fulfilled.

"The winter will break in the south and the ice will melt," he said, "and the hour will come when the ground will be hard and firm again—and then our armies will storm ahead again."

Then, he said, would come the revenge of "those who have now become the victims of frost."

Although he said he did not know whether the war would end in 1942, Hitler declared he was confident that "once we meet the enemy we will beat him."

At one juncture he shouted:

"We shall see who wins this war and—those who have nothing to lose and everything to gain or those who have everything to lose and nothing to gain."

GERMANY "PERSECUTED"

Most of the address was a reiteration of Hitler's long standing arguments that Germany was persecuted.

He said that even in the last war Mr. Churchill was among the "warmongers" and that Mr. Roosevelt was the "right hand of Woodrow Wilson, whom he described as "the man who caused the greatest harm to the German people."

He told his audience of Axis representatives, party leaders and soldiers — many of them wounded—that Germany's number of submarines had been increased greatly and that their activities would make themselves felt as a factor in the war.

He concluded his own hour and

Italian Hatred Of Nazis Follows Freak Business Deal

When In Rome Do As Germans Do, Is New Version Of Old Line

trinic appreciation but because inflation is an ever-present threat. They bought jewelry until the Italian government was compelled to impose the most rigid restrictions on the export of any precious metals to anyone, including their German allies.

BUY NEW HATRED

More than all these, however, the Nazis bought a new share of hatred, a new measure of independability, and added a new bruise to one of the most painful of the multiple sore spots that plague the new order.

Italy as an ally is almost useless, except for the geographical base it provides for the occupying German forces. "When in Rome, do as the Germans do," runs the 20th century version of an ancient line.

Whenever it has served the Nazi's purpose, they have placed the interests of the Italians secondary or even farther down the list. So eager are the Germans to make an arrangement with the French that they have assured Vichy the Italian claims on France will not be considered, except possibly for face - saving and otherwise unimportant concessions in Africa.

In November when reports were current that Petain and Mussolini would meet one French official scoffed at the rumor. What, he asked with elaborate gestures, would be the use.

"Mussolini would say, 'We want this, and this, and this.' The Marshal would say, 'No—c'est fini.'"

The contempt with which the Germans treat their "allies" is colossal. Once when the Italians beat the Germans by a couple of hours to the announcement of a Hitler-Mussolini session at the Brenner, the foreign office spokesman was badgered about it at the daily press conference in the dingy paneled Wilhemstrasse room where Bismarck formerly met his cabinet.

TOLD WHAT TO DO

The reply was coolly polite. There had been a "misunderstanding." But when the formal conference was ended, the Italians were herded into a smaller room and told what they would and would not do in the future in tones and terms that penetrated most of the building. German invective is peculiarly blunt.

How securely based are the ties between the Nazis and their Japanese allies is likewise dubious. When the then Japanese foreign minister, Matsuoka, visited Berlin last April, he spoke in the glowing and most general terms and promised nothing. He was a headache to his Axis hosts from the moment he began his journey until his return to Tokyo.

In Berlin he spoke English with Nazi Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop, who had insisted he would not utter another word in that language until the war was ended. He provoked the explanation from the foreign office, which didn't see the humor of it at all, that the Nazis "would see the medium of the enemy whenever it served their needs." When Matsuoka signed a non-aggression pact with Russia on his way home, it surprised and enraged the Germans, whose plans for their soviet venture were already far along.

In Rome Matsuoka ostentatiously telephoned an American diplomat while the Germans and Italians fumed and tried desperately to keep their tempers. There is at least grounds for suspicion now that the literal-minded Japanese, urged by the Nazis to get into the war, got into it on a scale and with a vigor that far exceeded the German program, for in one brief afternoon their attack jarred America into unity and action as nothing else could have done—a circumstance the Nazis were most eager to avoid.

Nor are Germany's lesser allies any happier or more secure. The New Order has developed frictions within itself that will keep the Nazis busily mending for years even should they win and impose their plan completely. Rumania and Hungary are at each other's throats. Slovakia would like a share in the quarrel. Croatia has publicly boycotted the Hungarians. The Bulterians and the Greeks, and the Bulgarians and Serbs have a lot of things to settle, which show no sign of peaceful outcome, even under Nazi pressure.

FINLAND TAKES LEAD

In the north, Norway—at least its Quisling government—is raging at "democratic" Sweden, and jealously watching Finland take over the position of Scandinavian preeminence so far as the Nazis are concerned. The "invitations" to Denmark and Finland to join the anti-Comintern pact in Berlin came as a major blow to Norway's prestige, although before the Danes agreed they apparently had received an ultimatum threatening to "reconsider" the whole basis of occupation and supplant the Nazi minister, who is the formal contact with a Reichskommissar.

In the Low Countries the situation is equally delicate. Clashes between Dutch and Flemish are frequent, while the natural antagonism of the Flemish and Walloons in Belgium has been fostered deliberately. The mutual, full-blown dislike of the Italians and the French completes the angry circle of allies which surrounds the Nazis

Rumania has concealed only its bitter disappointment over the so-called Vienna award of Aug. 30, 1940, by which the Axis—which means the Germans—took away most of Transylvania and gave it to the Hungarians. This irredentist sentiment flared into full flame when Rumanian troops, pushed along by the German drive, entered Odessa.

Rumanians made the curious and unscientific ethnological discovery that the Russians on the far side of the Dniester river were of old Rumanian stock, and almost immediately followed this with the assertion that the Hungarians, not only in Transylvania but as far west as the river Theiss, half way between the old border and Budapest, were also related.

"Only 50 years of independent Rumanian rule would be required," the government-controlled newspaper Ardealul wrote recently, "to return the inhabitants of the area as far as the Theiss to their Rumanian origin."

LONG LIVE RUMANIA

Now that Odessa had been regained, the armed forces, ran the line of the official press, should be turned westward against their other enemy—Hungary. Premier Gen. Antonescu in a speech that was received with considerable enthusiasm by his people assured them he would not rest until Rumania was "restored." The Nazi Field Marshal, Kesselring, on his way to review the returning Rumanian troops in Bucharest, was greeted at several places along his railroad route by demonstrators carrying placards saying, "Long Live Rumania—from Odessa to the Theiss."

All this did not pass unnoticed by the Hungarians, naturally enough, who look to Germany to restrain their boisterous ally. Some of the radio exchanges between Budapest and Bucharest almost pale the Germans' attacks on Russia. Both may have other troubles, too, and someone is certain to be disappointed.

In November, anti-Hungarian demonstrations occurred in several Slovakian cities on the third anniversary of the initial Vienna conference which restored to Hungary border territories assigned to Czechoslovakia by the Versaty of Paris after the last war. Slovakia was trying then to self-pedal the affair and reported them facilatedly. except in Bratislava, as anti-Jewish. When Hungarian troops moved into the wedge between the Dnau and Mur rivers, the Croatian press has refused even to print sport news from there.

The problem of Scandinavian hegemony has been a favored subject of the Quisling press in Norway. Its attacks on Sweden have been an attempt to drive the deeper rumblings of the Nazis themselves. Sweden is accused of discrediting the Quisling regime, of giving work and shelter to Norwegian refugees, of providing a "nesting place of Communism."

"Norway has made its sacrifice," wrote a leading Oslo newspaper recently, "and it gives us the privilege of saying to Sweden that no Democratic phrases are valid in this war."

Finland has taken its growing prominence in the north without too much enthusiasm. Thrown into the breach through no desire of their own, the Finns have voiced what rang in Europe as extremely candid expressions of their disappointment over Nazi reverses in Russia. They would be delighted to get out of the war, if there were any possible chance.

Ribbentrop himself, one of the leading architects of the New Order, is responsible for the neatest description of this general picture of distrust and discontent. He called it the "harmony of the dissimilar." Dissimilar it certainly is. If it is harmony, it is harmony of a type the world has not yet learned to recognize.

Eire Attacks Presence Of U.S. Troops

DUBLIN, Jan. 30.— (BUP) — A government statement denounces the presence of American troops in Northern Ireland. The statement, declares flatly that the government of Eire and Prime Minister De Valera regard the arrival of the United States soldiers as "aggression against Ireland and a violation of Irish neutrality."

Two days ago De Valera protested that he had not been consulted by Britain and the United States on the landing of an A.E.F. in Northern Ireland. Today's statement says that Eire considers arrival of the American troops in the north as supporting division of north and south Ireland in line with Britain's plan policy.

However, government quarters deny German reports broadcast abroad that De Valera has proclaimed martial law or a state of emergency in Eire. A government spokesman terms the reports "pure imagination."

"The arrival of fresh Japanese troops at the front and movements behind the lines indicate preparations of the enemy for the resumption of a large-scale offensive."

More than 200,000 Japanese troops, including an entire army, have besieged Gen. Douglas MacArthur's little defence force on Bataan for 23 days.

In a graphic message to President Roosevelt, Gen. MacArthur declared:

"Today, January 30, the anniversary of your birth, smoke-begrimed men, covered with the marks of battle, cut on this eve to review the returning Rumanian troops in Bucharest, was greeted at several places along his railroad route by demonstrators carrying placards saying, "Long Live Rumania—from Odessa to the Theiss."

by the United States and one by Canada to investigate the project, but the work of the commission seemed to have been beclouded by politics.

Some members of both commissions went for business reasons, interested in having the highway run along the coast of British Columbia. No consideration was given to any other route than one through British Columbia.

The commission declined to hold hearings in Alberta to receive suggestions of a route through Alberta and the Yukon. The commission said its instructions were confined to a survey of British Columbia routes.

OUTFLANK JAPAN

Mr. Hansell read from statements at Washington by United States authorities suggesting that a road passable to military trucks could be built before winter and, if a similar road were built by Russia through Siberia to the Behring Strait, it would be possible to encircle Japan and outflank her.

British Columbia could be completely isolated from the rest of Canada by destroying a few railway and highway bridges and tunnels.

"In carrying out an encircling move against Japan a highway to Alaska is essential at the present time," said Mr. Hansell.

He said he was not urging that the road go through southern Alberta but was convinced it should emerge from the United States somewhere on the prairies and run north by way of Edmonton.

Terrific Blast Destroys Barham

By LARRY ALLEN

ABOARD THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLAGSHIP QUEEN ELIZABETH, Nov. 25, 1941.—(AP)—The battleship Barham, struck by four torpedoes from an enemy submarine, exploded and sank within five minutes today off the Libyan coast.

I saw the Barham go down in a huge cloud of flame and smoke in one of the most spectacular scenes of the war. The blast was so great that it was believed the attacking submarine may well have been destroyed by concussion.

The fleet was making a wide westward sweep in search of Axis convoys when a single submarine made a daring daylight penetration of the line of destroyers screening the battleships.

At a range of 700 yards, the submarine fired its salvos, apparently at the Queen Elizabeth.

Just at that moment, this battleship made a quick zig-zag and the torpedoes sped on to strike the Barham, which was following closely in battle formation.

31,000-TON GIANT

The Barham, a 31,000-ton giant already was listing heavily to port.

As I watched, she wobbled over heavily, like some punch-drunk prize-fighter.

From quarterdeck to forecastle, all along her starboard side, hundreds of men began leaping into the water.

That all happened between 4:25 and 4:30 p.m. Nov. 25. Executive officers of the Barham ordered: "Abandon ship!" immediately afterward a heavy list developed and the Barham blew up at 4:30.

Immediately with the explosion I saw huge sheets of armor-plating, whole sections of the battleship, and the Barham's big motor launch flung hundreds of feet into the air.

From both sides of the Queen Elizabeth, destroyers steamed full speed into the smoke that was the funeral pyre of one of Britain's greatest fighting ships.

500 PICKED UP

The busy destroyers picked up about 500 of the Barham's 1,460 men, including Vice-Admiral Pridham Wippell, his secretary and 12 other officers.

The submarine apparently passed almost directly between the Barham and the battleship Valiant just after firing the torpedoes.

Several officers expressed belief that the submarine, being so near, must have been crushed by the concussion.

I was the only correspondent to witness the Barham's finale.

(Larry Allen, the AP's veteran sea going war correspondent, got back to New York on furlough a jump ahead of the story he wrote weeks ago describing the sinking of H.M. battleship Barham last Nov. 25 by torpedoes aimed at the battleship Queen Elizabeth from which he witnessed the attack.

NEWS WITHHELD

(Allen wrote his story aboard the Queen Elizabeth for transmission when the censor would permit. The Admiralty withheld its announcement of the Barham's loss until last Tuesday.

The story of the Barham, finally having cleared the British interval of sirategy and then the censor in Egypt, arrived table a few hours after Allen got to New York. Here is the long delayed dispatch. —Editor.)

Ottawa States Gas Allowance In Categories

OTTAWA, Jan. 30 — (CP) — Amount of gasoline which may be purchased under Canada's rationing scheme which goes into effect next April 1 varies from 300 to 750 gallons a year for non-essential cars to unlimited supply for all types of commercial vehicles, it was announced Thursday.

In a series of press releases, Munitions Minister Howe and Oil Controller G. R. Cottrelle of Toronto made public the fuel restrictions to be imposed on various classifications of drivers.

The number of units, each good for five gallons of gasoline but subject to revision as supplies vary, will range from 60 or a limited number more unita for category "A", the non-essential users, to as many as are needed to trucks, busses, taxis, ambulances and other commercial vehicles.

Unit allowances announced last night:

Category "A"—60 units and up, good for 300 to 380 gallons allowing approximately 5,400 miles of driving, includes all cars not in a preferred category.

Category "B1"—88 to 116 units, 440 to 580 gallons, approximately 8,000 miles.

Category "B2"—132 to 172 units, 660 to 850 gallons, approximately 12,000 miles.

Category "C"—168 to 216 units, 840 to 1,080 gallons, approximately 15,000 miles.

Category "D"—280 to 356 units, 1,400 to 1,780 gallons, approximately 24,000 miles.

Category "E"—388 to 500 units, 1,940 to 2,500 gallons, approximately 34,900 miles.

"COMMERCIAL" CATEGORY

Category "Commercial"—as much gasoline as needed, subject to official check on amount used: trucks, including farm trucks (farm and industrial machinery not required to be licensed or registered for highway use need not be registered); truck tractors; commercial passenger vehicles, busses, taxis, taxi-cabs, livery cars and drive-yourself cars; vehicles owned or operated by companies operating flying schools under the British Commonwealth Air Training plan; official vehicles of Dominion, provincial, county and municipal governments.

United States tourists will be allowed gasoline "on the same basis as Canadians" who drive for pleasure. Two special types of tourists coupon books will be issued, one for those remaining in Canada up to 48 hours and another for tourists who may remain not more than 90 days. Those staying longer than 90 days will apply for a category "A" license.

Most of the details on the amount of gasoline allowed for the various categories did not become available until last night, but Mr. Howe earlier in the day announced the various categories of gasoline users.

Dual Control Means Delay

The Toronto board of control asked Premier Hepburn to increase old age pensions, or get them increased. The Premier replied that he would first have to consult the Dominion authorities on a question affecting provincial revenue.

This is the usual procedure, and it illustrates the difficulties and delays incidental to dual-control. If one authority were solely responsible for the payment of pensions, quick action could be got when necessary, and this is a time when it is necessary.

Old age pensioners were living at little more than subsistence level in peace-time, and they are faring worse now. The paradox is that nearly everyone else is faring better.

When parliament takes up the subject, as it must during the present session, it will be worth considering whether the Dominion should not assume full responsibility for the system, leaving the provinces out of the picture altogether. As the provinces would save substantially by the arrangement, they might not unreasonably be asked to make some financial concession in return.

Jobs For Big Men

As a matter of course, Australia has been granted the right to have a representative on the Imperial war cabinet, the privilege being extended at the same time to Canada and the other Dominions. There is no reason to suppose the Dominions could not have secured such representation long ago if they had asked for it, though their immediate interests at stake were out of comparison to those of Britain while the war was confined to Europe and the neighboring fringes of Africa and Asia.

Japan's entry has changed all that. Australia and New Zealand are now imperilled actually and directly, and Canada potentially but as really. The war cabinet made now take cognizance of these changes and do its planning on an Empire scale.

The important matter is not that the Dominions are to be represented in this body, but what contributions to strategy and policy their representatives will be able to make. The places should not be filled by yes-men or political lame-ducks, but by men of outstanding ability.

Why The Difference?

The sinking of the Lady Hawkins off Puerto Rico and the sighting of Axis submarines in the Gulf of Mexico mark the presence of the raiders on the approaches to the Panama canal, the destruction of which is no doubt a standing objective to be attained if by any means possible. In West Indian waters they are also in position to prey upon ships passing between the Americas, and within striking distance of the shipping routes from North America to Europe. That the plan is to extend their operations down along the eastern coast of the southern continent must be supposed.

The Japanese submarines off the west coast have been little in evidence lately, for whatever reason. But they, or others, will be on the job again no doubt. The fairly obvious purpose is to establish a U-boat blockade along both sides of this hemisphere and so prevent the shipment of supplies to either Europe or the East Indies.

That German and Italian submarines have been able to operate more successfully than their allies on the west side, and to systematically extend their field of activity, is strong evidence that they are better able to replenish their supplies of fuel and torpedoes. This they must be doing either from shore stations or from "mother ships" far out at sea. The stronger probability of the two is that Nazi agents have established supply bases somewhere on the Atlantic coast of Canada, Newfoundland or the United States.

There is a reason why the U-boats on one coast can keep on sinking ships over a widening range while their fellows on the other coast have apparently not been able to keep their stations. The contrast suggests what the reason is.

The Scarcity Of Ships

One surprising bit of information given out by Prime Minister Churchill in his war review on Tuesday is that the failure to complete the defences of British bases in the Far East is not due to lack of men, nor even to lack of munitions—but to lack of ships. "Every scrap," he said, of tonnage that dare be drawn away from the vital North Atlantic lanes and the supply routes to Russia and the Mediterranean was loaded with equipment for the area where now Allied forces have to meet the Japanese on uneven terms. But there just were not enough "bottoms" to be had.

Critics who have been asking why a ship-load of munitions from Canada did not reach the Canadian troops at Hong Kong before that port was closed by the sudden swoop of the enemy may find the answer in the transport scarcity thus disclosed. In these days cargoes are not moved when they are wanted to be moved, but when they can be. They do not arrive on a long pre-arranged date, but if and when circumstances permit.

At Tokyo too, the significance of this shipping shortage that has overtaken the two greatest merchant fleets in the world—that of Britain and the United States—might be pondered with profit, though the war-directors there may not get much comfort from it. They have launched an oversea war, with the result, it is said, that they already have a million soldiers at the far-ends of long and vulnerable communication lines. These men can only eat and fight if Japanese freighters can keep them supplied with food and munitions. Japan has the third merchant fleet in the world, but it is substantially smaller now than it was six weeks ago.

Immediately Japan has no shipping shortage, and reserves of imported iron may enable its ship-yards for a time to replace losses. But eventual shortage is inevitable should the war be prolonged. And already ship-yards in Britain, the United States and Canada are launching tonnage at a rate which must soon overtake the Allied rate of loss, if it has not done so already. Then the situation will be reversed, and Japan will be restricted in the movement of supplies to the South Pacific while the Allies can pour more and more troops and munitions into that area.

Japan must win war quickly; or the riveters in a hundred Allied shipyards are sounding its doom in the rattat of their pneumatic hammers.

Premier Hepburn has emerged from the sulks to remind the public that Mr. Churchill has not yet accepted his repeated and very urgent offers to go to London and show him how to run the war.

The battleship Barham, which played a part in both Great Wars, was sunk in the Mediterranean two months ago. But the enemy did not know it, and was not told until there was no further advantage in concealment. The "silent service" has earned the name.

One Canadian concern, now producing Hurricane fighters for Britain, is at the same time tooling-up its plants to turn out 1,000 Curtis navy dive-bombers, at the rate of 80 per month. Not a bad showing for one concern in a country where up to two and a half years ago not one war-plane had ever been built.

Better Break For Aged

Urges Further Consideration at Ottawa For Increase in Canada's Old Age Pensions

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Bulletin: Is it not time that we as an intelligent people do all in our power to make conditions better for those who due to our worn out distributing system are suffering for want of food, clothing and shelter?

Here in Canada we are able to create or produce everything necessary for all. Yet there are thousands living under conditions not fit for man. This condition exists due to our habit of thought and our distributing system which is such that we must have money based on the value of gold in order that those articles or services may be exchanged or obtained by those in need and unable to procure necessary funds.

There are a few old folks here living on less than $100.00 a year and they, under our present system are made to feel ashamed that they have to depend on money gleaned from taxes.

Imagine if you can and will an old lady or gentleman living in an old one room shack with one lamp for light and a few beans, spuds and maybe some sugar obtained by a relief order amounting to six or ten bucks. If you were in like circumstances just what would be your thoughts. Would you like a new system controlled by our government of the people for the people instead of our present inadequate monetary system whereby we must pay rent for our means of exchange to whom?

Let us imagine for argument's sake that we Canadians just dropped in and we did not have a cent to our name, but we could produce everything we needed and did so. Now in order that all might live and exchange goods we as a people decided to issue, let us say $20.00 per month to all and this means of exchange had to be spent every year or it would be useless. At the end of each year a new issue would be made and a new census taken to enable the government to issue enough money for the distribution of goods and services. There would be a new set on all goods and services and an age limit prohibiting work when a man or woman must allow our youth the chance to develop.

Under such a system we as an intelligent people would be better able to understand each other and we would be our brothers' keepers and realize we could not do without each other. We would be more or less one great family all working together to create better conditions as we would have to advance together. We would not need banks in which to keep our money, nor would we need all the duplication of services such as ten or twenty stores where one would do, nor would we need a duplication of railways and bus lines competing for the mighty dollar.

We may not as yet be conscious of the fact that money is measured by his ability to produce dollars. He may not have given to humanity a new thought, but because he is what we call rich, maybe due to some inheritance of him money, he is able to live separate from the poor souls that most likely worked and slaved for the money he spends without giving a thought to the many in need.

Therefore until we become intelligent enough to see and see that we all live, we must seek to make conditions better through our government. If the government issued to all people over 60, $20 per month and compelled them to cease working for wages or producing for gain, it would help some. But we as a people should control our greatest asset, our medium of exchange and not have to pay rent for it. Surely we in Canada have brains enough to create a system that would do away with the cause of thousands living as they are now.

Write your to your member at Ottawa about better conditions for our aged.

New Bricks

Editor, Bulletin: Only those who offer a practical solution to all our social problems merit support in Alberta from now on.

"Liberal" from Wetaskiwin, on behalf of the refurbished Grit group formed here, considers a "readjustment" is the crux of the whole question. It is only a part that will remain with all other social evils until there is a change which will not come from the Liberals judging from the past.

The Grits, Tories, Citizens' Association or what have you have no progressive aims, are out to sugar-coat the status quo by all means and have nothing to offer us now or in the future that will meet the needs of our people in Alberta. Look across Canada and the answer will be found.

Social Credit has encountered such opposition in certain circles that one is prone to believe they are groping in the right direction though in the dark regarding basic economics. S.C. monetary reform must eventually result a cul de sac. Six years of it is surely evidence enough. the hapless sequence of scrip, treasury branches, postponing debt settlement that still left the same unemployment, poor farmers, freights for our youth and camps for our aged.

The Alberta Farmer - Labor Party (C.C.F.) has now emerged and its program is the most practical and advanced yet put forward in Alberta. Of course, those who are bankrupt of social solutions will try to discredit this program with bogey cries of "Socialism" which is supposed to rob us of profit and incentive and such rot.

The C.C.F. program is a step towards Socialism. If we are to build a "new heaven and new earth," we must use new bricks, not moldering old ones, whitewashed.

"Financial Domination"

Editor, Bulletin: The threat to democracy is becoming more and more apparent. The latest revelation comes from a high official of the U.S.A. Department of Commerce. He forecast a common currency based on gold of which the U.S.A. holds 85% of the world's production.

From this we perceive that international finance is seeking to undermine national sovereignity of individuals and states. The plutocratic and Jewish financial satellites of finance seek to enslave humanity on the false god of gold, and to centralize authority in the state, which is subservient to banker control.

Democracy must be freed from this subtle attempt to subjugate the inalienable rights of man in real political and economic democracy.

The recent conference of foreign ministers at Rio de Janerio had the following proposals brought before them:

1. Removal of all trade barriers, import duties, etc.
2. International money based on gold.
3. Emergency labor program permitting free movement of labor throughout the international money lands.
4. Commercial shipping facilities.
5. Socialization of all Latin-American air services for 10 years.
6. U.S.A. guarantee of "basic essential exports" to preserve the inter-communal pooling of all international minerals and agricultural resources; also U.S.A. capital supplied for development.
7. The U.S.A. to be arbiter statistician and collector of financial, economic and commercial "information."
8. U.S.A. "financing" of certain major projects.
9. U.S.A. "financing" and creation of "free ports" the signatory giving a "99-year lease."

The foregoing can be summed up in one word "centralization."

The apparent camouflage of international finance masquerading under the banner of socialism and communism will not deceive any religious democrat who sees the insidious hidden hand of money monopoly seeking to choke the economic life blood of all nations especially the British freedom loving peoples who compose the "British Commonwealth of Nations."

Examination Delays

Editor, Bulletin: I have heard from many of the young lads who wish to enlist state that when they apply they are told to come back later for examination. Some claim that they have to wait for days and are not able to afford paying hotel bills, etc., while waiting in town.

If the lads are waiting to give all they have to make conditions better so that we may continue to eat white bread instead of saskatoon, spaghetti, etc., we should make arrangements where our boys would not have to wait around for days for an examination.

Many of the lads travel long distances and cannot afford much expense to enlist, only to be told to come back later, which may be days later; and they cannot afford to go back home or to stay in town, and they get fed up and rightly so.

Arrangements should be made whereby the lads should be able to remain home until called when they could be examined immediately.

How about it officials?

"The Re-Write Man"

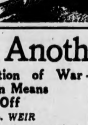

Just Another Burglar

Thailand's Declaration of War Against Britain Means Mask Is Off

By HAROLD L. WEIR

Thailand's declaration of war against Great Britain and the United States has been received with equanimity. For the declaration itself legalizes a situation which, despite contrary assertions on the part of high officials on both sides, was patently belligerent for several weeks before December 7.

Thailand, of course, is just another penny-ante Axis burglar. Hitherto she has been operating behind a mask. Her declaration of war merely removes the mask.

Harold L. Weir

Before Japan's first invasion fleet was seen steaming across the China Sea towards the serpentine neck of Thai territory that is the "Panamanian Isthmus" of south-eastern Asia, the Thais had already given Japan the use of Singgora, their chief port near Malaya, upon the oriental side of the isthmus.

Just as the Bulgarians, in the Balkans, opened the doors to the Germans to make possible the invasions of Jugoslavia and Greece, so the Thais let down the bars of neutrality to allow the Japs to strike at Burma and Malaya.

Thailand was an accomplice state before she became a belligerent.

It is always easier to deal with such petty thugs when they come out into the open.

Spurious Resistance

Thailand's declaration of war sets out in true perspective her phony "six-hour resistance" to the Japanese invasion.

This is a twin counterpart to the Bulgarian foreign minister's "What can we do?" statement, delivered to American journalists just before the Germans entered his country.

Uncertain how strong allied reaction may be, a small country in each case tries briefly to play safe and assume the role of an unwilling tool. But as soon as time proves that the wind blows strongest from the Axis quarter, the timorous tool suddenly develops a gruffer voice and enters the war as a full time ally.

Thailand, like Bulgaria, has claimed part of her price beforehand.

Just as Bulgaria wheedled the Dobruja out of Germany—and from helpless Rumania—so Thailand had her Japanese-inspired, comic opera war against French Indo-China and got two slices of Indo-Chinese territory in advance.

She means to continue to ride upon the Japanese bandwagon and get more.

Judas' Wage

Just as Bulgaria claimed Jugoslavia's South Serbia and Greek Macedonia as her gambler's price, so Thailand wants a long strip of Burma, called Tavoy, which would make here domination of the isthmus unchallenged, and also the Malayan states of Trengganu and Kelantan.

With regard to the latter, Thailand makes historical claims—not with sufficient vehemence to warrant the publication of a white book like that which preceded her claims against Indo-China—but with the same bright-eyed opportunism.

Her claim to the two unfederated Malay states is based upon the gift offering of a golden image called "Bunga Mas" which the Sultans of Trengganu and Kelantan used to send the Siamese kings 300 years ago.

If the Bunga Mas did not exist—like the mongoose in the story—something else would have to be found.

Thai troops have not been observed, so far, upon the Malayan front but they are taking part in hostilities with the Japs against Tavoy—something the Bulgars never quite dared to do for the Germans.

The British have bombed Bangkok twice since the war began and more bombings are expected to follow.

Thus, all-out belligerent status is accepted on both sides.

Thai's Part

There is a positive role for Thailand in Japan's plans, whether or not the Japs are able to take Singapore.

The Nipponese want to build a canal across the Isthmus of Kra as soon as the Burmese and Malayan fronts can be pushed sufficiently northward and southward, respectively, to guarantee reasonable freedom of operations.

How the plans were able to transport across the Kra Isthmus 100-man landing barges, some of them motored, now being used upon the west coast of Malaya is an unwritten story.

But as an operation threatening Sumatra and Singapore by air it is a lively achievement which must have had long-term co-operation by Thailand's government.

Traitor Hunt

By no means the least amusing of those lighter operations which will conclude the war will be the mopping up of these lesser gangsters who have seized the opportunity to share in the plunder won by greater thugs.

The rounding-up of the minor Judas Iscariots, the hamstringing of the jackals and the general obliteration of those vermin that have fastened themselves upon the victims of war will be one of the most enjoyable tasks in the later phases of the conflict.

The punishment of Hitler, if and when it occurs, will be a more majestic thing. There will be something almost divine about his plunge into the pit.

But the leeches, the walking-on villains and the incidental assassins will provide plenty a diversion.

One requires some sort of comic relief in this war.

How The Sixth Column Came To The Russian Front

Germany's Hardest Soldiers Fell Before Onslaught of Creeping Army Bringing Death

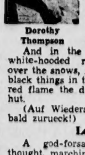

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Sixth Column on the Russian front.

In the second half of January they entered the front on the Russian front.

Nobody saw them come.

Over the white wastes a few airplanes zoomed. The temperature registered thirty below. In that still frigidity the engine would not start, even the oil congealed to frozen jelly.

Dorothy Thompson

Strange high tanks poked out their ugly noses over the drifts and from them spurted flame.

Sometimes, from the East, wildly riding on stocky horses, came weird men in white wool and sheepskin, tall fur hats on their heads, and machine guns mounted on their saddles.

And in the white nights hordes of white-hooded runners came skimming over the snow, bearing in their short black things in their hands shattered with red flame the doors and windows of the hut.

(Auf Wiedersehen, Maria, ich komme bald zurueck!)

Lebensraum

A god-forsaken country, he had thought, marching forward. Endless.

The radio had said, "Was machst Du jetzt in Russland?"

Dirty wooden villages, muddy squares, and rutted roads. Lebensraum.

(In the summer the little steamers went ching ching from Cologne to Mainz past vine-embowered villages; the wine was crisp and flowery under the chestnut trees; the white ships had moved handsome as duchesses into Hamburg; in Oberdorf, in winter, one sat with one's back to the green-tiled stove and drank mulled wine. Deutschland . . . Deutschland . . . Was macht ich jetzt in Russland . . . Hell . . . Hell!)

On to Leningrad! On to Moscow! On to Kharkov, Rostov, on. It was different when we were in the air. Like a gunfire. There it spread out like a scene in the theatre, broad alleys, thick green leaves over white streets, glassy pavilions with little marble tables, curving bridges over the river, pitched green roofs, secretive palaces, fairy towers. Place this and place de that, and the surprised haughty, pained look the people had. Silk stockings for Maria then, and perfume, and a good bed. A job for a Herrenvolk . . . taking Napoleon's town.

Napoleon.

He went to Moscow, too.

Hold and Fight

January, February, March, April, May, and spring would come again.

Just hold on, hold and fight, till spring. It's fairly hot in Russia in the spring.

Then came the silent, the invisible gray army.

It marched gray and still through the cracks and doors of the enclosures in Poland . . . the new ghettos. Marching by he had looked in and his stomach had turned over. Those blue and hollow faces with the sunken staring eyes. Those wraith-like bodies clad in filthy rags. "Der jebende Leichnam" — the living corpse. He'd seen that play once . . . in Berlin . . . some cursed Russian wrote it . . . Tolstoy.

He averted his eyes. My God, why do they have to moan like that?

Dirty Jews. Why don't they all die?

The Fuehrer knows best. Trust the Fuehrer.

Silent Army

The gray army was silent and invisible. It crept along the gutters, along the walls, after the passing soldiers.

It had fought in Eastern campaigns before; long ago the Russians had met it and fallen before it. But there was a law that those who had once met it and survived need never face it again.

But here were new armies for it; clean hygienic, arrogant. Master-folk.

The gray army. If you saw them, made you shudder with disgust. Fat little bodies, and tentacle-like legs, made to crawl, to stick, to cling. Hunger, cold and dirt their element. Wool and fur, hair, and the warm, close bands of brown collars around throats.

The German armies in the last war knew them well. Therefore they made no winter campaign. A stalemate from December to May. And every eight days every man relieved from the front to go back to hot water, soap, clean clothes, carbolic, camphor.

The damned Russians were practically immune.

Like a Pig

In the shattered hut, he picks them off his short—looks in the neck band, the armpits—picks them out and drops them in the stove.

Disgusting. Make you feel like a pig. But, "Krieg ist Krieg," all in the day's work, and only one in a thousand harmful, probably, if you can put up with the itch.

Heil Hitler.

Nobody shot him. Then why this blinding, hideous, searing pain across the brows, that scalps a man, not once, but many times?

Just now his finger froze on the trigger of his gun. Did it freeze or did it burn? His finger is afire, his head, his limbs, his heart. A heart that beats 130 to the minute suffocates the breath; the temperature is 30 below zero; but the tongue burns and swells at 105 degrees of fever.

The sun glares in burning eyes and grows dark. The arms drop, the limbs crumble.

No Russian comes. No gunfire, no planes, no tanks. Crazily he feels himself burning to death in the ice, the dying brain delirious, the burning tongue licking at the snow.

Exhausted Heart

In a base hospital in a strictly quarantined ward, they could pump camphor into paralyzed veins to stimulate an exhausted heart.

But where are the hospitals?

There are not enough doctors. In the pig pen of the Ghetto from which the gray troops poured are doctors, Jewish doctors, dying, too, of typhus.

Perish the Jews!

The boy's eyes glaze. The burning body freezes where it lies.

The gray guerillas crawl to the next soldier. They multiply as they move. And the word of their coming spreads panic

Their element is hunger, dirt and cold. They begin their campaign in the last weeks of January. They reach the peak of their blitzkrieg at the end of February. They continue their death crawl into March.

Civilized hygienic men are least immune.

The Sixth Column.

Postmaster Leads Hectic Life In Keeping Clerks

RIMBEY—This town's postmaster, A. B. MacDonald, has just about given up trying to keep good looking young ladies as assistant wicket tenders, for if persuasive wouldbe husbands do not get them the army does.

Out of five such young ladies, three were married and one has turned munitions worker in Toronto. Last of the line is Miss Kay Dronyk who this week was accepted by the C.W.A.A.F. Miss Dronyk whose home town is Two Hills, has been on the Rimbey P.O. staff one year. She was the successful candidate for queen of the Lacombe Lions' Club carnival last October.

RIMBEY—Every day something funny happens at Rimbey. Here is the latest. The incident really occurred at Red Deer, but as it had to do with Rimbey people, it's Rimbey's.

A certain resident of the district southwest of Rimbey was summoned recently to appear on a charge of illegal possession of liquor. The prosecution charged that because this was not the citizen's first offense, he was liable to a fine of $200, in default of which a jail sentence could be imposed. A prior offence, for which he had been convicted and fined, according to the prosecution, had been committed seven years back when Const. G. Fordham, R.C.M.P., now of Smoky Lake, had been in charge.

A statement of commitment (or whatever the legal term is) was duly acquired from Const. Fordham and the prosecution thought they had it all tied up in a bag. Imagine their consternation when J. R. McClure, of Red Deer, solicitor for the defence, insisted that there was no positive legal proof that the citizen presently charged and the man priorly convicted were one and the same. Although many present, including the magistrate, were acquainted with the accused, none could take oath that it was he who had been priorly convicted.

The prosecution had neglected to secure Magistrate A. B. MacDonald of Rimbey, before whom the first charge had been laid, as a witness. And now the citizen is laughing, in spite of the fact that he was fined $30 and costs for a "first" offense.

Cadomin Miner Again Invents Safety Device

CADOMIN — Announcement is made by the Canadian patent office of the acceptance of an invention of great importance to the coal mining industry and to safety of men employed underground. This is the second invention in two years for the owner, Charles Jacobi, miner here for 20 years.

The first contribution to the safety of men in mines was made by Mr. Jacobi two years ago in a safety catch on cages in case of rope breaking. His latest achievement is a safety double-rope stope-hauling apparatus for prevention of runaway trips of mine cars when the rope breaks while in motion. The device, which is attached to trip or cars, operates on stationary rope which lies in the centre of the track. In case of moving rope breaking, the apparatus automatically grips itself and grips the stationary rope, preventing the trip tearing down the incline in a wild ride which would mean death to any occupants who happened to be riding in mine cars. Also it would prevent damage to haulage road when trips break away.

Mr. Jacobi worked in the coal fields of Nova Scotia, Fernie and Brule before being employed here.

OYEN — Funeral services were held at the Oyen United church here Monday for Mr. Alex MacDonald, 88.

Police Crack Down On Sleigh-Riding

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE—Police have ordered all sleigh riding on the highway leading down to the river, to stop at once, or offenders will be jailed. From the top of Main street down the highway to the river ice is almost a mile, and a wonderful sleigh ride, but there are dozens of trucks coming in with heavy loads of lumber, and on the winding river hill they cannot see a sleigh coming.

Several have raked bad accidents with their loaded trucks to miss children, and have made so many complaints that the police will stop all sleigh riding on the highway or down to the river. Truck drivers claim that by the time a sleigh has come down the highway that is an smooth as ice and reaches the top of the river hill, it is going 60 miles an hour, so any accident would mean a very serious one.

Foothills Citizens Assist War Effort

FOOTHILLS—Residents of Foothills have donated $713 to the Red Cross since Labor Day of the past year.

The local Red Cross organization has sent quilts, warm winter garments for civilians and a total of $335. for war relief.

A further sum of $203. was collected through the Foothills local of the U.M.W.A. from employees and, residents of the town and forwarded to the Red Cross for Russian relief. At a Russian-English Night concert $100. was supplied by two orchestras, an additional $175. was cleared and also forwarded for Russian relief.

A committee of twelve men, headed by J. Pawlyshyn, sponsored the drive and held in the Foothills community hall.

Says 80 Per Cent. Volunteers Veterans

LLOYDMINSTER—"If the citizens of Canada had done as well as the veterans of the last war, there would be no need for conscription in this country" according to Col. Craig, commanding officer of the northern unit of the S.V.C.S.C. in support of this statement he said that "During the first year of this war, 80 per cent of the volunteer enlistments in Canada's fighting forces were returned men from the last war or their sons.

The statement was made at a banquet of the Lloydminster unit of the S.V.C.S.C. at which over 60 veterans of the last war enjoyed a turkey dinner prepared by the ladies' auxiliary. Major McKay, a staff officer of the unit from Regina, outlined the new strategy of modern warfare compared with that experienced in the last war.

Reservists Fined

RED DEER—Three members of the 2-79th Battery, R.C.A., Red Deer, were fined $5 and costs each when they appeared this week before Magistrate M. Millican and for being absent from drill contrary to Section 115 of the Militia Act. This was the first time that local militia authorities had brought cases into court but it is expected that all absentees will be prosecuted in future.

Settlers Getting Ready To "Boop" Brown Invaders

NORTHVILLE — The boys of this settlement, are rapidly training themselves to boop Jap snipers out of tree-tops, should the occasion arise.

They're squirrel hunters, and every day, from dewy morn to dusky eve, you can hear the tuneful twanging of the twenty-two as the settlers' sons increase their proficiency in the same sort of realistic and tricky marksmanship that enabled the old pioneers to hold the Redskins at bay in the good old days of Dan Boone and Tippecanoe.

The boys, of course, are not really getting ready to hurl back hordes of little brown brothers. What the boys are really after is the old do-re-mee.

Squirrels now stand at approximately 15 cents each, just half of what they were before Nippon nipped at Uncle Sam's flanks. Even at the 15 cent rate, however, the average bush-raised boy can do pretty nicely for himself on a Saturday or other holiday. It takes a keen eye and a steady hand to make any kind of a bag. Squirrels are not exactly "big game". They are pretty smart critters and are hard to see in the dull light of a winter day when crouching motionless against the rough brown bark of a spruce or pine tree.

If the Japs do come here, the boys will no doubt be glad to turn their attention on them, at a price, say, of 15 cents a scalp. The .22 bullets will easily kill a man at tree-top range.

Citizen's Kin Is Safe In War Zone

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE—Postmaster W. J. Kirby received news Tuesday night from his daughter, Mrs. Charles Thomas, in Honolulu, the first news of any kind received since the bombing there.

Mrs. Thomas said it was hard for people to believe they were being attacked and most watchers thought it was manoeuvers over the harbor till they saw smoke and then recognized the planes as Japanese. Citizens were asked to stay at home, blackouts were ordered at once, martial law declared. Early Monday morning, workmen began building shelters and Monday there were practise air raids. Boy Scouts and hurriedly-formed bands of men were on guard all Sunday night. The University buildings were turned into homes for citizens moved from harbor areas and high schools into hospitals for the many wounded.

Police searched all Japanese homes for short wave sets and found many. Mrs. Thomas' letter, written Dec. 8, took seven weeks to arrive, and was censored. Mr. Kirby believes that as soon as travel is resumed, Mrs. Thomas and her four children will return to Rocky for the duration.

HIGH QUALITY STANDARD MAINTAINED

McCabe Brothers Grain Firm Opens New Plant In City

Fully-Modern Business Up-To-Date Addition To Edmonton's Feed Trade

Maintenance of a high standard of quality, backed by an unconditional guarantee, are the predominating features of the policy of McCabe Bros. Grain Co., Ltd. This firm, which has in the past several years established feed houses in Winnipeg, Regina, St. Boniface and Port Arthur, is happy to announce that their large establishment in Edmonton is now open for business.

Towering 110 feet above ground and spread over a large area with a wing 100 feet long and 40 feet wide already in operation, this latest and most modern addition to Edmonton's feed and seed business is situated on the Fort trail and 70 street.

This establishment, an offspring of a company with more than half a century of experience behind it in Canada and the United States, is managed by P. D. Sweeney, a man with nearly as many years of experience in the grain business as the company itself.

Assisting Mr. Sweeney are R. Wallace in the capacity of general buyer and P. J. Wyntonyk as seed buyer, two men who know the seed business from every angle, and who are especially trained in the most modern methods of seed selection and handling.

PERMANENT STAFF

The size of the permanent staff in the operating end of the firm is not yet definitely established. Mr. Sweeney is however convinced that in view of the unexpected surge of business since the machinery was set in motion there will have to be increases over the present complement of men.

Though several portions of the plant are only in their last stages of completion, the place has been open for business for several weeks.

Fully modern in construction and equipment the three-building establishment is kept spotlessly clean, a matter tremendously simplified because of the finest quality maple floors and easy accessibility to ingredients at time of mixing of the different feed preparations.

Access to both the elevator section and the feed section is most simple owing to its convenient location. The office is joined to the other buildings by a "goosewalk."

One of the most modern features of the drive-in is the electrical front lift, which lifts the front part of the truck to bring it to a slope suitable for dumping grain into the pit.

GRAIN HANDLING

Grain out of the pit is elevated to bins in the taller portion of the building in a manner similar to the ordinary grain elevator. Chutes from each bin can be directed to a weighing bin which can be filled with grain of the mixer's choice.

The elevator bins have a capacity of over 60,000 bushels, and the weighing bin provides sufficient grain to fill a mixer with a capacity of 2,000 pounds.

Grain used for preparation of the specially prepared feeds must make at least two completed vertical circuits of the building. From the truck it falls into the pit. From the pit it is elevated to the cupola and is directed into a bin. From the bin it is directed down a chute into the weighing bin. From here it finds its way down to the hammer mill crusher.

From here the crushed particles make a rapid trip vertically to the "cyclone chamber" at the very top of the wing portion of the building, where they are allowed to settle by their own weight.

The process of preparing the required mixtures begins at this point.

IMPORTANT INGREDIENT

One of the most important ingredients used in the preparation of most of the feeds is a substance called "greenmelk." Greenish in color, and packed in 40 gallon barrels, melk could well be mistaken for a paris green solution or some form of paint preparation, but according to those "in the know" this ingredient is proving to be one of the most important sources of several food values known.

Greenmelk is a mixture of dried buttermilk and ground dried cereal grass, and retains all the valuable qualities that one would find in the two original substances, buttermilk and green cereal grass.

McCabe Bros. point proudly to the claim that they are the only feed manufacturers who use green melk in chick starters.

This is one of several features of their methods of feed preparations that make it possible for them to unconditionally guarantee all their sales.

The formulas are all registered with the Dominion government and in order to maintain the highest possible quality of feed, McCabe Bros., are always on the alert for improved methods and ingredients.

Their feeds are manufactured in accordance with the latest laboratory and practical tests. They leave instructions in each bag outlining the latest and most scientific feeding methods for each type of feed.

Minerals, concentrates, mashes and balancers for cattle, hogs and poultry, featuring especially pig, chick and turkey starter, egg mash and developer mash, poultry and hog balancer, and calf meal are all manufactured right on the premises and thus guaranteed freshness is assured.

McCabe Bros. have such modern and efficient mixing equipment and such effective methods of storage that freshness is a by-word with the company's sales staff.

MODERN EQUIPMENT

Extra speed and efficiency is added by the most modern electrical equipment. Push buttons are used to control the 35-horsepower motor used to run the grinder, blower and mixer.

Another feature of the company's insistence on quality is the listing on each sack of the percentage of protein, fats and fibre contained therein.

To minimize handling of sacks the second floor of the mixing room is equipped with two chutes, one to the truck platform and the other to the warehouse. Specially partitioned places for the different sackfuls expedite further the handling.

Mr. Sweeney was glad to state that though the plant had intended to make the buying and selling of grain and seed as the primary objective of the plant during the opening stages of the Edmonton business at least, the trend of the livestock conscious farmers has forced them to hasten construction with a view of manufacturing the latest concentrates, developers and balancers.

This has been accomplished at a much earlier date than the original plans called for and now the stress is most decidedly placed on that phase of the business.

McCabe Bros. has, through its 32 years of progress, shown at all times a desire to take advantage, at the earliest possible moment, of any progressive trends in farming development.

This was first shown several years after they began operation when they promised to place a grain elevator at every station established in Manitoba during the construction of the Great Northern Railway.

WIDE COVERAGE

They never regretted keeping their promise as they grew so rapidly that today they have over 200 elevators in the States and 112 in Western Canada. They spread into Saskatchewan in 1914 and into Alberta the following year.

Now, in concurrence with the times when livestock feeding is gradually replacing wheat growing as the primary industry in the west, McCabe Bros. are rapidly transforming many of their grain elevators into feed manufacturing houses.

In all instances and especially in their newest plant situated in Edmonton, McCabe Bros. stress three essentials about all their products—unconditional guarantee, freshness, and liberal use of greenmelk as an ingredient in all their starters and developer mashes.

The plant is worth the critical perusal of any person interested in livestock or poultry raising.

New Premises Opened Here By Leading Grain Company

Here are the premises of McCabe Bros. Grain Co. Ltd., situated at the corner of Fort Trail and 70 street, which were recently opened for business. Backed by over half a century of experience in the grain business, McCabe Brothers specialize in the manufacture of fresh concentrates, developer mashes, and balancers for livestock and poultry. The Edmonton premises are among the most modern in western Canada, fully equipped with the latest machinery arranged and handled in a manner that makes it possible for the sales staff to unconditionally guarantee all their feeds.

Much more profit is expected from flocks by the modern farmer. It is therefore necessary to feed rations which will, first of all, supply the hen with health and vigor, and then supply her with all the needed ingredients from which her marvelous body will consistently produce the finest eggs. Victoria Poultry BALANCER has been developed for this need. It supplies proteins more abundantly than any other Balancer on the market.

"Pirates Of Penzance" Given Fine Rendition By University Society

Presenting the gay and melodious Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera, "The Pirates of Penzance" in Convocation hall on Thursday evening, members of the Philharmonic Society of the University of Alberta won for themselves new honors in their already enviable record of musical successes. The opera, presented before a large and enthusiastic audience of students, faculty and over-town folk, follows in the wake of other Gilbert and Sullivan operas presented by the society during the past few years, and measures up well to the successes of former years.

The curtain will go up at a quarter past eight o'clock on Friday and Saturday evening, the final evening performances and at half past seven o'clock at a matinee performance on Saturday afternoon.

Congratulations go to youthful Walter Holowach, under whose baton the orchestra played; to Thomas W. Dalkin, dramatic conductor and to G. Alex Kevan, the chorus director, for a performance that was satisfactory in every respect.

CHORUS WORK

Special mention might here be made of the chorus work, which at all times retained a high level. Both musically, and dramatically, the chorus members fulfilled their appointed tasks, as support to a talented group of principals, with satisfaction. The choruses were as melodious and charming backgrounds as their writers, Gilbert and Sullivan intended them to be. At all times, they gave a pleasing, colorful and tuneful setting for the unfolding of the plot.

Several well-known Edmonton singers were cast in the principal roles. Laurier Picard sang the role of Frederic, the "hero" of the tale. A trifle wooden in his stage manner, he nevertheless acquitted himself with merit.

Special mention is due Roger Flumerfelt for his outstanding performance of the evening in the characterization of the "model Major-General", Major-General Stanley. No newcomer to U. of A. musical circles, he is becoming known in ever-town circles, too, as a singer of worth. His voice is well-controlled and shows familiarity with Gilbert and Sullivan type singing. Pronunciation was at all times perfect, the timing good and his acting, by far the best of the entire cast. He fitted himself into the role with ease and sang with mastery, assurance and facility.

A MAJOR ROLE

Norma Madill filled one of the major roles as Ruth. Hers was a good performance, too, and is deserving of much credit. She has been a familiar figure in musical productions in Edmonton for several years and always comes through with honor.

Barbara Gillman was a charming Mabel. Her voice is very sweet and well-suited to the part. Lacking somewhat in volume, her voice nevertheless made up for this lack, by sweetness and charm. Her gleeful personality was charming and particularly suited to the part she played. Myrna Hirtle will sing the role on Friday and Saturday evenings.

The charming trio of sisters, Kate, Isabel and Mabel were played by Marion Williams, Bernice McBeth and Betty McNally. Through their vivacity, charm and pleasing stage appearance they added much interest to the whole. They were light-hearted, gay and sang sweetly.

A special measure of praise is due Ralph Jamison, as the Pirate King. His voice was at all times easily heard, his pronunciation satisfactory. His was one of the best performances.

Douglas Williams sang the role of the sergeant of police.

SOCIETY MEMBERS

Members of the society in charge of the production are Mr. Gilbert Brincombe, president; Miss Betty Gillman, vice-president; Mr. Robert Torrance, business manager; Miss Betty McNally, secretary; Mr. Bruce Collins, assistant business manager; Mr. Leon Bell, librarian; Miss Helen Warnock, wardrobe mistress and properties; Mr. James Manning, prompter; Mr. Fred Simpson, stage manager; Mr. Russell Hannah, electrician; and Messrs. Returns Home

NEW YORK, Jan. 30. — (AP) — William C. Bullitt, personal representative of President Roosevelt, arrived Thursday aboard a Pan American Airways Clipper after an eight-week trip to the Middle East.

Scores Big Hit

Roger Flumerfelt, who registered a triumph in playing the role of Maj.-Gen. Stanley, in the University Philharmonic production of The Pirates of Penzance, which opened a three-day engagement at Convocation Hall on Thursday night.

Twin Brothers In Air Force To Hit Hitler

Double trouble in double doses awaits Herr Adolf Hitler, And it's coming from both sexes.

Last week Margaret and Madeline Stiffin, two auburn-haired, blue eyed twin sisters of 18 years, decided to go gunning for Hitler in a tandem act that saw them enlisted in the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force. Their father is also serving with the armed forces.

Perhaps the girls planted the seed in the minds of another set of Edmonton twins, but at any rate Charlie and Phil Wilson, 19, of 10022 85 avenue, evened the score on behalf of the mere males by joining up with the R.C.A.F. at recruiting headquarters Wednesday.

The male twins who passed their "medicals" Wednesday and were formally sworn in on Friday are Edmonton products all the way.

They were born here 19 years ago. Their next birthday is in March.

HAVE EVERYTHING

They are everything that a good set of twins should be. They look alike, talk alike and dress alike. And they're both alike in their keen desire to fly high, wide and handsome against the Luftwaffe. They are joining as student pilots.

The boys weigh almost exactly the same, around 155 pounds and are nearly exactly the same height. Charlie is slightly taller.

They are well known on the South Side where they attended the Mount Carmel Separate school. They attended St. Joseph's high school. Charlie attained considerable fame as a high school rugby star.

BROTHER OVERSEAS

A brother, Patrick Wilson, is already serving overseas with the R.C.A.F. as a wireless technician.

There are four boys and four girls in the family. The father, C. Wilson, is well known in the city. He is at present in charge of the bottle exchange for city dairies and at one time operated a dairy himself.

Charlie had his medical examination first and after triumphantly passing all tests he sat down to an anxious vigil while twin brother Phil was being given the medical equivalent to "the works".

"He will be the bunk if he don't make it," Charlie mumbled as he looked at his watch for the umpteenth time while Brother Phil appeared to be played somewhat unduly in the next room where the examining physicians were.

After what seemed like an eternity to the then, frantic Charlie, Brother Phil swept out with a glow of triumph lighting up his face. He had made the grade. Both boys had the smile that won't come off as they left the recruiting office.

As one followed a short distance behind the other to the elevator door they passed a cute little stenographer from the R.C.A.F. office.

"Am I seeing things or are there two of them?" she exclaimed with something like fear in her beautiful eyes. When reassured there were indeed two separate and distinct persons she observed with languid longing: "Why aren't all the good-looking guys twins?"

Manning Pool Trims Army Boys By 10-8 Count

Manning Pool marked up their second victory over the R.C.A.S.C. Training Centre hockey boys from Red Deer when they defeated them 10-8 out at the depot rink here on Thursday night.

The big crowd had the pleasure of watching two fast teams in action, both squads being liberally sprinkled with senior hockey talent.

For the Army there were David, Proulx, Milford, Dahl and Bello, all of whom are on the Red Deer Buffalo roster in the A.B.C. loop but they were not just quite good enough to match strides with the Airmen.

BAGS FIVE POINTS

Hawk for the winners proved the sharp-shooting star of the game with four goals and an assist. Gray, formerly of Lethbridge Leafs, came up with a brace of counters and an assist.

McDougall also scored twice and Kennedy of last year's Regina Rangers had one goal and an assist. Emery netted the other for the Airmen.

Pusie Proulx led the Red Deer squad with three goals and an assist. Dahl and Bello each scored twice and David, Hunter and Milford all drew down assists.

ALWAYS IN LEAD

Manning Pool took a two-goal lead in the first period, counting four times to the Army's twice and they were never behind.

The Army Service boys picked up three in the second period to the Airmen's two, but the latter came right back in the final session with four more, while limiting their opposition to three.

As proof that the boys weren't letting the ice grow cold under their skates last night, it might be noted that Proulx scored with 15 seconds left in the first period. Bello's counter came with seven seconds left in the second session and Dahl just barely got under the wire in the third canto, his goal coming at 19.59.

Country Entries Rolling In For Edmonton's Annual 'Spiel

MONDAY morning the 25th annual bonspiel of the Alberta Curling Association will get underway here and today Secretary Jim McCool is adding more and more entries to his rapidly growing list of competitors as each mail brings word of outside rinks with design on the finest array of prizes Edmonton has ever offered.

Early this morning, 31 outside rinks had sent in their entries. They represent a wide area from Unity and Wilkie in Saskatchewan to Jasper and Cadomin in the west, Acme in the south and Westlock in the north.

The popular all-Chinese rink which Mah Bow of Ponoka brought into the bonspiel two years ago will be back. This time Dick Mah of Coronation will skip and Mah Bow will play second.

Secretary Jim McCool figures that total country entries will run to around 65 this time with about 40 from the city clubs and will city skips please hurry their entries so that the rock stickers can be printed at once.

Last year there were 61 country rinks in and 42 city squads.

The tempting array of prizes are now on display in the 101st street windows of the T. Eaton Company, Ltd.

Bonspiel headquarters will be opened in the Royal George Hotel on Saturday with the opening draw being made in the rotunda at 8.00 p.m. Sunday.

The northern Alberta playoffs in the British Consols competition will start on Monday, Feb 9 followed by the Alberta finals which will also be here.

Even Goalies Get In Some Punches

TORONTO, Jan. 30.—(CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs strengthened their hold on third place in the National Hockey League race when they downed Montreal Canadiens 7-3 in a wild, scrambly game featured by a free-for-all fight in the third period.

A crowd of 10,295 fans witnessed a moderately sane contest until the early minutes of the third period when a battle royal broke out including every player on the ice. Both goal-tenders joined the brawl, although their efforts were mostly by way of interference.

To add to the confusion, there was a power failure just after the brawl started and the automatic timing equipment failed to work, making it impossible for the fans or sports writers to tell what time goals were scored. The balance of the game was timed by stop watches.

The Leafs were leading 3-1 when Ken Reardon, Montreal defenceman, and Bingo Kampman, Toronto rearguard, started to push each other around behind the Toronto goal. It was the signal for fireworks and players paired off for slugging bouts.

Sweeney Schriner of the Leafs and his sparring mate, Buddy O'Connor, drew major penalties out of the rumpus. Ken Reardon and Pete Morin of the Canadiens and Lorne Carr and Wally Stanowski of the Leafs drew minors. Stanowski hurt his ankle when he tripped over a glove and retired to the dressing room instead of taking his place in the cooler.

Goldham was in the penalty box before the scrap started and soon after play commenced Johnny Quilty joined the penalty parade.

Pete Langelle, swivel-hipped Toronto centre, led the Leafs' scoring spree with three goals. He had scored only four markers previously this season. Schriner bagged two and Johnny McCreedy and Stanowski each counted one. Johnny Quilty, Charlie Sands and Murph Chamberlain were marksmen for the Canadiens.

SID HOWE HAS NIGHT OF NIGHTS

DETROIT, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The veteran Syd Howe bagged goals in the second and third period last night to give Detroit Red Wings a 2-0 National Hockey League victory over Chicago Black Hawks before 7,164 spectators. It was the third shutout of the season for Goalie Johnny Mowers.

The 30-year-old Howe, who received tribute from Detroit fans with a night in his honor, made mockery of the tradition that his performance for the occasion would be a poor one. If Sam Lo Presti hadn't had such a spectacular night in the Chicago nets, Howe possibly would have had at least one more score.

In the second period Howe got his stick on a shot from the blue line by Jack Stewart and deflected it into the nets. That would have been enough, but midway of the final period Syd connected again, this time on a pass from the boards by Joe Carveth.

The victory enabled Detroit to maintain fifth place by half a game margin over Brooklyn Americans, who defeated Boston Bruins. It also gave Detroit a 3-2 edge over the Hawks this season.

Before the game, Detroit fans presented Howe—who has spent seven years in a Red Wing uniform —with a piano and assorted gifts. He ticked the ivories at centre ice to the delight of the fans and then tickled them even more with his game—winning goals.

In their defeat the Hawks lost ground in their battle with Toronto Maple Leafs for third place.

AMERICANS WIN 5-4 OVER BOSTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A depleted Boston team on Thursday night lost a close 5-4 National Hockey League game to Brooklyn Americans after fighting from behind a three-goal deficit to tie the score early in the third period.

Brooklyn, with the Buzz Boll, Mel Hill, Billy Benson line clicking for a part in four of their five tallies, swept the Bruins off their feet in the second period. But the hard-fighting Bruins had the Americans hanging on to maintain their slim lead at the end.

Boston played without the kraut line, Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart, who passed their Royal Canadian Air Force medical tests earlier in the day in Montreal. This loss, and the fact that their play-making centre, Bill Cowley, is out for the season, unsettled the club.

Boll, the veteran American centre, scored the winning goal, trapping a long pass by Wilf Field, and also scored one of the second-period goals, while Hill, with a goal and three assists, led all point-makers of the night. Defenceman Tommy Anderson and centre Ken Modell got the other markers.

For Boston, Herb Cain scored in the first period, and Bill Hollett in the second. Early in the third two quick goals by Art Jackson and Eddie Wiseman brought them up level.

LINEUPS:

BROOKLYN—Rayner; Egan, Anderson; Modell, Chamberlain, Kyle. Subs —Field, Branigan, Hill, Armstrong, Jamieson, Boll, Larson, Watson.

St. James Now In Lead

'Toba Junior Race Close

WINNIPEG, Jan. 30—(CP)—St. James Canadians and Portage La Prairie Terriers are still taking turns for the leadership of the hotly-contested Manitoba Junior Hockey League south division's. Today the Winnipeg suburbanites have a two-point margin over the Portage sextet.

St. James went on a scoring rampage last night and blasted Winnipeg Rangers, last season's Dominion junior titlists with an 8-5 score. Up until last night's contest most of the games in the south division loop have been decided by one-goal margins with the exception of Monday's game when Terriers walloped Winnipeg Monarchs 7-4 in an overtime contest, after they had evened the count at 4-4 with but one second of regulation time remaining.

In the Manitoba north division junior section it's just about the same story as far as giving and taking is concerned. Winnipeg Falcons are at the top of the heap at the moment, wresting the leadership from East Kildonan Bisons, whom they lead by a single point. They are closely followed by St. Boniface Seals and Canadian Ukrainian Athletic club. The latter team is in last spot, only three points behind the leaders.

At the head of the lakes, Fort Arthur Bear Cats are having practically their own way with Fort William Hurricanes. They have won three best-of-five series in a row against their intra-city rivals and have to win but the next series to cop the Thunder Bay Senior Hockey League title.

The rather unusual series was necessitated when only Fort William and Port Arthur entered the league operations, entry in the league last season, failed to enter a team for the 1941-42 season.

The Thunder Bay junior league sort of evens up matters as the Fort William Rangers continue walloping the opposition with scores that look more like a cribbage tournament. They defeated their opponents twice in their last six victories with 18-6 scores and rang up 70 goals in eight games played so far. Port Arthur West Ends are in second place in the three-team loop, followed by Fort William Columbus club, who have yet to register a victory.

Krawchuk added the fourth goal in the third period.

Edmonton Trio Score All Goals

LETHBRIDGE, Jan. 30.—(CP)—Lethbridge Maple Leafs strengthened their hold on second place in the A.B.C. Senior Amateur Hockey League by defeating Trail Smoke Eaters 3-1 here Thursday night in a game that was played at high speed but which for the most part contained ragged hockey.

The loss prevented Trail from gaining a second-place tie with Leafs who now hold a four-point advantage over the British Columbia sextet. It was Trail's second loss in the team's current six-game Alberta tour which will continue Friday in Red Deer and wind up Saturday in Calgary.

Rimstad, Culley and Maher scored the Lethbridge goals, one in the first period and the other two early in the second, while Bobrosky saved Smoke Eaters from a shutout by netting the puck midway through the closing frame.

It took Lethbridge only two minutes to get into the scoring but after they broke the ice the game developed into a close-checking affair with no further scoring in the first period. Rimstad snared the goal when he picked up the puck at his own blueline, skated through the Trail defence and then went behind the Smoke Eater net before hooking the rubber around the corner into the goal.

Both teams attempted power plays when Slobodian and Christiansen were off but they failed to click. When Slobodian and Bobrosky went off together for roughing there was some clever hockey in centre ice but the goals were never in danger.

Once again Leafs did some early-period scoring, boosting the score to 3-0 in little more than three minutes of play and then going back to hard checking to keep the rest of the frame scoreless.

Culley netted the first of the two goals, taking a rink-wide pass from Slobodian and slipping the puck into the net despite being held by Bobrosky at the time. A minute later Maher slapped Burke's rebound back into the hemp after the two had gone the length of the rink with Tennant in a smart three way passing play.

Play in the third period was rough and ragged with no scoring until Pringle drew a penalty midway through the session. While he was off Trail uncovered a checker-board power play and Bobrosky scored when he took a short pass from Buckna and slipped the puck along the ice into the net.

Goalie Andy Young apparently could not see the puck through a screen of players and it trickled into the net for a fairly easy goal.

Plans For Loan Drive Outlined To City Group

Canada's second Victory Loan will do not much more than bring up-to-date the nation's expenses for the year ending March 31, 1942, E. R. Hanna, Ottawa, member of the employee section of the dominion finance committee, told Edmonton's employee committee at their luncheon in the Macdonald hotel, Thursday.

Mr. Hanna arrived in the city Thursday to assist the local employee committee with plans and preparations for the city campaign which is scheduled to commence on February 16. Accompanying Mr. Hanna is R. H. Brough, Calgary, chairman of the Alberta employee committee.

WAR FINANCE

The luncheon meeting was the first gathering of the newly appointed employee committee for Edmonton, organized under the chairmanship of Hugh E. Pearson. Paul H. Carpenter is vice-chairman and R. Spilsted is secretary. Appointment of the committee was announced by H. M. E. Evans, provincial vice-chairman of the national war finance committee, earlier Thursday.

Mr. Hanna painted the financial picture of Canada from a year prior to outbreak of the war to the end of the present fiscal year in March, to familiarize the committeemen with the tremendous strides that Canada has made in war finance on one side, and the even more tremendous strides that the Canadian citizens have made in net savings and net income.

BALANCE DEFICIT

Canada's deficit for the year ending March next has been placed at $1,300,000,000 above national revenues. Through the first Victory loan and war savings during 1941, the deficit was reduced by about $500,000,000, he said.

This loan will not do much more than make up the balance of last year's deficit, Mr. Hanna added.

It is estimated that Canada will need about $2,350,000,000 for the 1943 fiscal year. That clearly gives us a picture of what is lying ahead, Mr. Hanna stated.

In referring to the national income since the war began, Mr. Hanna explained that the net income has risen from $4,500,000,000 to $6,000,000,000, and the war-savings have increased four-fold in the past year.

DEFENCE NEEDS

"We are now devoting about 35 to 40 per cent of the national income to defence while in the last war it never exceeded 10 per cent," he said. "But in view of recent developments the war is far from won, and we will without a doubt be called upon to devote much more."

"We have done an amazing job, but we don't yet appreciate the magnitude of the job ahead of us. Let's do the job. Let's get on with it and win the war," he pleaded.

Mr. Hanna remarked that Canada is out full force in a drive against inflation which he termed as one of Hitler's allies.

If Canada is successful in this drive, it will have a tremendous effect upon her rehabilitation plans after the war, he exclaimed.

AGAINST INFLATION

To date, Canada has launched the attack against inflation in four ways: first, overall control of prices; second, freezing of wages and salary; third, industrial priorities and rationing; fourth, curtailment of public spending by drastic savings through war loans and war finance campaigns, he explained.

Mr. Hanna stated that there are 22,000 firms across Canada that have adopted the payroll plan of savings, and 7,500 of the major firms are covered by the employee committee for the second war loan.

At this point Mr. Hanna pointed out that according to last figures released, only three per cent of the employee payroll is devoted to war savings and the first victory loan combined. We must shoot at 10 per cent, he emphasized.

PLAN OF PROCEDURE

Mr. Hanna then outlined to the 25 committee men present a plan of procedure for organizing the loan campaign among employees. This plan, said Mr. Hanna, has produced stupendous results where it has been tried, and the national committee has taken care to pass it on to other organizers across Canada.

The committee of 25 is assigned the task of approaching the managements of about 75 major business firms in the city to assist with the organizing of internal victory loan committees in each establishment.

NECESSITY OF SPEED

In the opening remarks, Hugh Pearson, chairman of the Edmonton employees committee, stressed to the members the necessity of speed in getting the employees into the drive.

He announced that plans were under way to hold a meeting next Friday at which representatives from each of the 75 city firms, that come in under the employee committee canvass, will be present. Other organizers from the city and the rural districts will also be present, he said.

B. A. Trestrail, Ottawa, will fly from the east to address this meeting, he said.

R. E. Staples, war finance committee chairman for Edmonton, appealed to all to look at the victory loan in the light of the money being theirs, as it is for Canada, and Canada is theirs. He hoped that the campaign of the employee committee would conclude in 48 hours.

The committee consists of the following: H. E. Pearson, chairman; P. H. Carpenter, vice-chairman; R. Spilsted, secretary, and the following members: E. H.

$25 Is Fine For Traffic Offence

Arraigned in police court Friday following his arrest Thursday on charge of dangerous driving, Arthur Wackerhouse, 9908 150 street, entered a plea of guilty and was fined $25 and costs or 35 days in jail.

According to police reports Wackerhouse collided with a car being driven by B. E. Hosford, South Edmonton, at the intersection of 81 avenue and 109 street. Force of the impact hurled Hosford's car clear across an open sewer excavation where men were working. However, no one was hurt.

Mrs. Hosford, who was riding with her husband was severely shaken up in the crash, police stated. Damage to both cars was heavy.

Manslaughter Charge Set For Hearing Feb. 6

Peter Lienwebber, Calgary, scheduled to appear in city police court Friday on charge of manslaughter, will not face the court until Feb. 6, Clifton G. Purvis, K.C., crown prosecutor, stated Friday. Lienwebber, it was stated, has declared that he will waive preliminary hearing of the charge and the delay is necessary in order that the magistrate might have an opportunity to survey evidence submitted to a coroner's jury, which probed the fatal crash one mile south of Leduc on Christmas day.

Lienwebber was driving the car in which David Repp, Calgary, met his death when it collided with the car in which Mr. and Mrs. James Tighe, Edmonton, were proceeding south. Mrs. Tighe died in hospital from injuries received in the accident.

Seven-Year Term For Auto Theft

Found guilty in supreme court by Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor on a charge of retaining possession of a stolen car, Theodore Smiley, Edmonton youth, was sentenced to serve seven years in Prince Albert penitentiary. On a charge of carrying a revolver he was given a three-year sentence to run concurrently with the seven-year term.

Following his conviction, J. W. McClung, K.C., crown prosecutor, informed the court there was a long list of convictions against the accused. He said the accused was only out of jail three weeks after serving a two-year term on a serious charge when he committed the present offences.

Smiley was charged with being in possession of a motor car stolen in Edmonton on Dec. 15. He was apprehended at Westlock by R.C.M.P., Cpl. Buchanan and Const. Jones. Mr. Justice O'Connor complimented the officers on the efficient manner in which they captured the prisoner.

Passing sentence, Mr. Justice O'Connor said, "For the past seven years officers have been attempting to reform you, but without success. Society is entitled to be protected from you and others of a similar type must be dissuaded from committing such crimes."

Committee Will Probe Resources

Investigation of the natural resources of this province will be carried out by a committee consisting of Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, Hon. N. E. Tanner and Dr. Robert Newson, president of the University of Alberta.

Announcement of the survey was contained in the Speech from the Throne, delivered at the opening of the legislature on Thursday.

Preliminaries are under way and date of the first meeting of the group will be announced in the near future.

PREMIER SAYS PONDER NEW LEVY

Government Considers Ultimate Consumers' Sales Tax

Plan To Use Proceeds Financing Increase In Old Age Pensions

To finance the proposed increase in old age pensions, an ultimate consumers' sales tax is under consideration in the Social Credit caucus, it was stated Friday by Premier William Aberhart. Members have been urging $5 a month as the pension boost.

"The caucus has definitely decided to go ahead with the increase in the pensions," the premier said. "The sales tax is under consideration."

The proposal under consideration is to introduce in the budget an ultimate consumers' sales tax, part of the revenue from which would be used for education and the other part allocated to the health department, which administers the old age pensions.

There are some 10,500 old age pensioners in the province and an increase of $5. If borne completely by the province, would cost an additional $630,000.

The Alberta government in 1937 introduced a two per cent. sales tax but abolished it in 1938.

Concert To Climax Russian Aid Drive

Climaxing the campaign to raise funds for medical aid to the Soviet Union, the Edmonton branch of the Ukrainian and Russian associations to aid the Fatherland will present a concert of Ukrainian and Russian music, song and dance in the Empire theatre on Saturday. The program will commence at 8 p.m.

Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen, Mayor Fry and other prominent Edmonton citizens who are patrons of the concert, will make short addresses.

In recognition of the vital sacrifices made by the Russian people in their struggle in the cause of many freedoms, as well as to alleviate the physical hardships endured by the Soviet people the Canadian Red Cross conducted this campaign to raise funds to send them badly needed medical supplies.

The campaign quota is $500,000. Of this sum Ukrainian Canadians acting through the Ukrainian Association to Aid the Fatherland have pledged themselves to contribute $100,000.

The concert promises to be a splendid display of Ukrainian and Russian music, songs and national dances—the culture of which Canada is fortunate to have, and which is an integral part of Canadian life.

Proposed Change In Marriages Act

Married persons living apart for more than seven years may obtain decrees equivalent to divorce freeing them of marital ties and permitting them to re-marry, if an act introduced by Premier William Aberhart in the legislature Thursday is passed.

The bill, entitled the Solemnization of Marriages Amendment Act, was the first bill introduced into the legislature following the formal opening by the lieutenant-governor.

Purpose of the amendment is to allow decrees of death to be issued in the event either a husband or wife has been missing for seven years (an Enoch Arden decree) or to allow a decree of divorce where separation for seven years has existed.

Getting Around

with Jack DeLong

There's a dispatch from Kuibyshev, Russia, today that will probably not be read by many people. It reported, with that almost lovable laconism peculiar to Russian news items, that Soviet archaeologists have discovered the palace of Temerline's grandson, Ulug Bek. Temerline, better known as Timur I Leng, was a famous Oriental conqueror of the 14th century.

The item is interesting, we think, for two reasons. In the first place there's something radiant about the Russians taking time out from their life and death struggle to report on the findings of a group of scientists. To many people, archaeologists are just a bunch of crack pots with a mania for digging up old dead bones in outlandish parts of the world.

The fact is too often overlooked that much of our more factual knowledge of the history of man has been literally unearthed by archaeologists.

Secondly there's a very interesting philosophic lesson that people living in aggressor nations might take note of with profit.

One could almost picture the sardonic smiles on the faces of the searchers and hear the throaty chuckles of the bearded wise men of the land of the Soviets as they unearthed one mouldy piece after another of the once proud palace of the great conqueror.

As the scientists went quietly about their work another proud "conqueror" was still shouting his threats of annihilation and gathering his waning strength for new furious blows. He was still shouting of his "thousand-year Reich." The Russian archaeologists were probably saying to one another:

"Old Temerline also thought he could rules the roost. Just look at him now. He's a pretty sick looking conqueror."

Hitler should have studied archaeology instead of painting.

A cartoon by the beloved Bruce Bairnsfather, appearing in "Fragments from France" during the last war, is also brought to mind by the Russian news item.

The cartoon purported to show a page from a scientific journal, dated, 2916. The page started off with the question: "What is the meaning of those long, zig-zag ditches running from the English channel to the Swiss border? That question has puzzled archaeologists but it is now generally agreed there were some intertribal wars around the period of 1914."

The cartoon was captioned: "It all comes to this finally."

Noted Speaker Pays Tribute Youth Groups

Tribute to all democratic youth organizations as a means toward training the young people of Canada into the proper democratic channels, was paid by Miss Winnifred Kydd, O.B.E., Montreal, deputy chief commissioner of the Canadian Girl Guides' Association, in an address to members of the Edmonton women's auxiliary organizations in the Talmud Torah hall, 103 street, Thursday night.

Miss Kydd spoke on "Totalitarianism versus Democracies," and referred to quotations out of Hitler's book Mein Kampf, to show how the Nazi chief put into practice ideas about German youth education as a basic means of acquiring the totalitarian state.

She contrasted Hitler's methods of youth education with the methods adopted in democratic countries. Miss Kydd used "Guiding" as an illustration of how youth in Canada is trained along democratic principles.

She paid special praise to such youth movements as the C.G.I.T., Boy Scouts, Y.M.C.A., and Y.W.C.A., and others, in respect of the extreme value they are to the nation's young people, especially under the stress of war.

The meeting was sponsored by the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force.

Police Round Up Three Calgarians

In a check up Thursday night city police detectives arrested three Calgary persons, two on charges of illegal possession of drugs and the other on charge of keeping liquor for sale. All of the accused appeared before Magistrate A. J. Miffar in police court Friday and were remanded one week to Feb. 6.

Arthur Addison and Virginia Middleton, alias Cavanagh, held on the narcotic count, were taken into custody at 11:30 p.m. when Det. H. E. Graham and Det. E. Kenny visited a house on 109 street. The officers stated they discovered several capsules containing a "suspicious" looking powder, which is being analyzed. Accused were removed to the R.C.M.P. barracks.

Emma Myers, also of Calgary, was arrested in premises on 104 street by Sgts. Graham and Kenny on the keeping liquor for sale charge. No plea was entered and accused was released on bail of $700.

The work of Miss Kathleen Shackleton, prominent Canadian artist, a collection of four dozen sketches of various employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway, went on display on the ground floor of the C.P.R. building this week. The models include W. A. Begg, passenger conductor on the Edmonton-Calgary run, and G. T. Jackson, C.P.R. agent at Lacombe.

City Will Make Large Payment On Bond Debt

Edmonton will pay $873,196 principal and interest on its bond indebtedness on Monday next. Of this amount $601,106 is interest, and $272,090 principal, it was announced Friday by Frank Barnhouse, city treasurer. The payments are being made under the 30-year Fortin refunding plan.

Hard cash for the interest payment is already in the Imperial bank here, and the $272,090 principal payment will be made to the city's sinking fund board for the purchase of Edmonton bonds for cancellation.

Payments on principal and interest, under the refunding plan, are made twice yearly on February and August 1. Interest on the bonds is payable in Canada, New York and London.

Many holders of Edmonton's bonds, for patriotic reasons, have not been claiming their right for payment in United States funds thus saving the city a substantial amount in interest charges.

Army Recruits Come Forward Steady Stream

Recruiting for the Canadian Army (Active) continues at a steady pace, with Thursday netting 18 new recruits out of a group of 30 who went before the medical boards at the Prince of Wales Armory.

There were a dozen applicants present when the office at the Prince of Wales Armory opened on Friday.

In addition sheet metal workers and textile fitters are needed. All men now enlisting with these qualifications are being urged to join the R.C.O.C.

How do you think you will like reverting to travel by horse-drawn vehicles and saddle horses if wartime restrictions cut down the use of cars?

THE ANSWERS

FRED KENNEDY, newspaperman and part time farmer: Being a horseman, I'd love it. I'd just as soon fork a cayuse to go on my assignments as ride in a gas buggy, in fact sooner. I'm at home in the saddle.

FRED BOWERS, shoe salesman: I don't think I would mind riding in a buggy. It's slower but there's less strain. We need more hitching rails on Jasper, though.

BERT MILLAR, salesman: This would probably cause the same situation as we have now with Sunday drivers. A car horse wouldn't have a chance with nags dawdling along the highways on a sunshiny afternoon.

JOE MacCRAY, accountant: I think probably that by the time we reach that stage we'll all be so busy that, if horses are used, they'll have to be fast ones. Anybody who isn't driving a service car will have to know how to handle fast horses or take the street car.

Plan Continue With Ditty Bags

The women's committee of the Navy League of Canada, northern Alberta division, under the chairmanship of Mrs. T. Harold Field, has decided to continue to send ditty bags to both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts throughout the year for the Mercantile Marine only. Since the 880 bags which were shipped in time for Christmas morning distribution two further crates have been shipped and a third is leaving Edmonton this week.

So far 340 sweaters, 2 afghans, 12 leather gherkins plus 1,103 knitted articles have been despatched and the committee is most grateful for the help of the Alberta Women's Institute and the I.O.D.E. as well as several other organizations and numberless individuals throughout the city and Province who are helping in this worthy cause. The workroom is situated in the basement of Thompson and Dynes store, 10336 Jasper avenue, and is open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 10 to 1, and 2 to 5; Wednesday from 10 to 1.

Wool is provided for those desirous of knitting and donations for the ditty bags will be most gratefully received, as well as pieces of leather for the gherkins.

Mental Alertness Tests Disclose

Girls Are Smarter Than Mere Boys

By JACK DeLONG

That the female is the more deadly of the species has been long a contention of some biologists. But now, it seems, the girls are really starting to pour it on. They're not only deadlier but they're smarter.

At least that's the sad, sad state of affairs revealed as the result of mental alertness tests conducted at the R.C.A.F. recruiting headquarters here by FO. Dr. J. G. Falconer, educational officer to the depot.

These mental alertness tests, a new departure, designed to fit the person to the right job, are given all those seeking to enlist in the R.C.A.F. and to young women joining the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force.

HIGHER AVERAGE TESTS

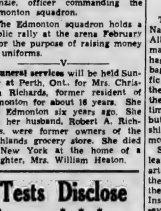

"Women have been turning in higher tests on the average than the men," Dr. Falconer admitted in a hushed, awed voice that was only to be expected from a loyal male.

Shattering of the myth of masculine mental superiority was in small measure softened when Dr. Falconer explained that many of the best qualified pilots and air crewmen have already joined up.

"The best qualified of the girls

Dorothy Dix Says:

If I could say one word more earnest than any other to teen-age girls, it would be to urge them while they are still in high school to decide on some trade or profession by which they can support themselves and to begin to prepare themselves for it. I would implore them not to think of their future in terms of romance and roses and millionaires who will marry them, but as a hard proposition which will be harder still if they are not fitted to grapple with it. I would like to make these little cuties realize that the best happiness insurance that any woman can take out is to be able to earn her own bread and butter and cake, for it is only the woman who can stand on her own feet who is not crushed by the trials of life. So I would say to these girls: Daughter, if you want to be happy, if you want to be successful, get busy. Study your aptitudes, see what you can do and you out for, and follow the wise old dame's plan.

Dorothy Dix

Did you always stand at the head of the spelling class? Then stenography is your dish. Have you personality and a glib line of talk? Salesmanship is for you. Have you magic in wour fingers and an eye for color? Somebody is waiting to pay you big money as a milliner and dressmaker.

Choose your job to your liking and then perfect yourself in it. You will have to work just as hard and just as long hours for a small job as you will for a big one. The difference in the pay envelope will depend upon your skill.

The reason so many women fail in business is because they regard their jobs as just a bridge between the schoolroom and the altar.

But the catch in this is that you never can tell about marriage. Maybe you will get a husband who can't support you. Maybe you won't get a husband at all. Maybe your husband will fall ill and you will have to be the breadwinner. Maybe he will die and leave you with a houseful of little children to care for.

Naturally, daughter, you look forward to getting married and living happily ever afterwards. Good!Then begin in the schoolroom to study domestic science. Make yourself a crackerjack cook. Learn how to juggle a budget. Be an expert cook and housekeeper gives a woman a trade by which she can always make a living if the necessity comes upon her.

And finally, daughter, having a good trade which you can cash in on, is the best protection you can have if you are unfortunate enough to marry a brute. The helpless, dependent woman has to endure whatever treatment the man she is married to accords her. Not so the woman who is self-supporting. She can put on her hat and walk out.

Your Baby And Mine

It is vastly important that children should have all types of natural experience. They should learn to play with children and also discover that they can be happy playing alone. They should have the enjoyment of eating at the family table and conversing with guests there and likewise be spared the constant supervision and criticisms of parents at some of their meals.

Now one of my father-readers thinks I contradicted myself in a recent article when I said that children would acquire better eating habits if they ate alone. His wife claims to be says, that it is important to the bringing up of children that they sit at the table with their elders.

The answer is both yes and no. Children should have enough experiences sitting with adults to acquire the kind of table manners which they get by imitation. They should have the stimulation which comes from listening and taking part in adult conversation. But, I still contend that if children are to acquire good habits of eating and robust appetites that are the result of enjoyable experiences at the table, they can get those best when they eat alone.

Up to 8, children are so distracted by the conversation at table that they get into dawdling habits, it being more fun to listen than to eat. They are so inept with eating utensils that they are sure to be the target of all kinds of acid remarks intended to set them on the right path but with them it has the effect of getting them out of the mood of eating.

Parents tend to worry about the amount of food children eat and the order and manner in which they eat it. If these habits are emphasized in front of the children they become self-conscious about eating and this has dire influence on their appetites.

The privileged child seldom eats at the family table until old enough to be comfortable there. Yet, obviously his table manners do not suffer. Manners are picked up easily by imitation and the parents expect, too, that they will be. A child doesn't need 5 years of such experiences in order to be able to eat in seemly manner. He does need 5 years of perfect enjoyment of food, without hampering and discoloring by scolding, criticisms or the obvious worries of his parents.

So, if it can be managed conveniently, I feel that the child loses nothing valuable and gains much by being allowed to eat alone or with other children of the family.

Our leaflet, "Good Manners", discusses some of the behavior we consider socially desirable in children. You may have it by sending a 3-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to me in care of this newspaper.

One tournament that I know will be a big success this year is the Cotton Belt Tournament to be held at Memphis, Tenn., March 6 to 8. Four Memphis women came to Richmond in December and carried home the national women's team-of-four championship trophy. They had a remarkable score in both the first and second session and their victory was very popular. I imagine that many players of the South, will turn out as this tournament to celebrate their victory.

I like the line of play adopted in today's hand by Mrs. Randolph Scott, one of the members of this champion team. On the opening lead, Mrs. Scott, sitting North, was faced with the problem of what suit to develop.

If the defence held two heart stoppers, developing the suit would be dangerous, since they might be able to cash three spades. If West got in with a heart, she surely would shift to spades anyhow, so that if the jack was held by East, the long of three spades was inevitable.

Mrs. Scott decided to take the bull by the horns and develop the spades herself. She took the opening lead in dummy with the jack of diamonds and led a spade.

East won the nine with the jack and led the deuce of diamonds. Dummy put on the king in order to lead the other spade and now a duck with the six forced the ace. A third diamond came back, West discarding a club.

Mrs. West laid down the queen of spades, which West won. A club was returned, Mrs. Scott winning with the ace. She cashed the ten of spades, and East made the natural but costly discard of the deuce of hearts.

Mrs. Scott led a heart to the ace, then regained the lead with the club king. She led the other heart and when East showed out, dummy played the nine. West won, but then was forced to give dummy the last two heart tricks.

Your Figure Madame!

Life would be so much more pleasant if the high calories came in spinach, and the vitamins came in pie. But no, it has to be the other way around and a body can get more calorie mileage from a dessert course than from any other. For example, you could walk five miles in 40 minutes on a three-inch wedge of cherry pie at 300 calories. But the trouble is, those who like pie invariably do not choose to walk five miles in 40 minutes.

All right, walk slowly, say three and three-quarter miles an hour. At this moderate rate you can burn up the pie calories in an hour and ten minutes. How long would it take to walk off the calories if you top the pie with a scoop of ice cream? Practically all afternoon if you amble along slowly.

Let's say you eat the pie and skip the walk—what happens? Nothing, unless those calories are in excess of your energy needs. Then that's the catch. When the calories come at the end of a good meal, they usually are in excess, the proof of which is on the scales. But if you leave off the vegetables and milk and some of the other protective foods, so as to have calories to spare for dessert, you would be on a deficiency diet. You can't do that.

The way to get around it is to become acquainted with some of the desserts that are not as high in calories. Any dessert that contains flour, sugar and fat is fattening. The less fat, the lower the calories. A three-inch wedge of angel cake without icing (and it's good without icing) contains only 180 calories. The same size piece of sponge cake contains 200 calories. Add chocolate (fat) to the cake and the icing and you get 500 calories in a two-and-a-half-inch square.

There are lots of custard desserts and whips that are not high in calories. Banana custard contains 133 calories per half cup; banana whip, 100 calories; for three-fourths cup; baked custard, 133 calories for one-half cup, sherbet 100 calories per half cup, ice cream, one-half cup contains 200 calories; one small scoop 175 calories.

Pie generally contains from 200 to 300 calories for three inches. A single pie crust nine inches in diameter contains 600 calories, a double crust, 1,200 calories.

If you are trying to cut calories to keep your weight within reason, make it a rule to take dessert only every other day, and on alternate days have fresh fruits, which are comparatively low in calories and are on the list of protective foods.

Sofa Revived By A New Slip Cover

Made By Quick Pin-On Method

A glossily dark, brightly printed new slip cover does wonders for your old sofa's morale! It picks up the spirit of the beholders and sitters, too!

You can make it easily the pin-on way. You just pin pieces of fabric directly to the sofa, snip off the excess material and sew piece to piece

To start, remove cushions and pin fabric to top-back with big pins. Pin it down over the inside-back and seat of one section, allowing 4 inches for tuck-in between. Then trim around all the pins, leaving 1½ inches for seams

Now, working in the very same way, pin and trim other pieces of fabric to fit other back-and-seat sections—and do likewise for front arms, sides and back and cushions. Pin piece to piece, remove to baste, then try on.

Finish with a deep, gathered flounce—or a smart stiff one with corner kick-pleats

Our 32-page booklet diagrams each step in making and in trimming slip covers for chairs, sofas, auto seats. Has directions for barrel and channel-back chairs; includes frilly and tailored cover styles. Suggests colors, fabrics.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "How to Make Slip Covers" to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service, 60 Front St. W., Toronto, Ontario. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

The popular notion of Indians is that they all decked themselves out in bright-colored feathers on their headdress. But this is not true. Many tribes had no such custom at all, and never knew about wearing feathers until they came into contact with white men. Now Indians realize that they are expected to wear feathers, and so they put them on, just as a cowboy puts on a Texas hat, before making a movie scene. It would not seem right without the feathers or the Texas hat.

Nursing Mother Has Double Responsibility

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Natural food for the new baby is its mother's milk. The activity required by the baby in getting its food from this source plays an important part in shaping the arch of the jaw and this in turn takes care of incoming teeth without overlapping. Some believe, too, that the abdominal muscles are strengthened, and that breast-fed babies are less apt to have protruding stomachs.

Nursing a baby is a normal function which any normal mother should be able to take on. Of course, her physical condition must be good and her diet wisely planned. Simple, easily digested foods (avoiding fried foods, rich gravies and rich desserts) are a "must" because anything that upsets the mother is apt to affect the milk supply.

To insure a good flow of milk, plenty of food is needed, the diet must include more starches and fats than are ordinarily consumed, must contain plenty of protein foods, especially milk, eggs and easily digested meats, and must include minerals and vitamins in sufficient amounts so that the mother's system is not depleted in furnishing them to the baby. Increased food consumption is definitely more necessary during nursing than during expectancy. As a child grows, its demands become greater and the mother's food intake must also increase.

MILK IS MAINSTAY

Milk and more milk is the backbone of the nursing mother's diet. She must take it "as is," in beverages like cocoa and milk shakes and egg nogs, in cream soups and sauces, and in puddings. It gives the most efficient proteins for growth and for milk production, supplies necessary calcium and phosphorus and some vitamins, too.

A Voice!

Every city has an outlet for the expression of its life and thoughts. Sometimes a man or woman, more often an institution, deeply rooted in its history will be the voice that declares for all citizens the things they think and do together.

In Edmonton the people have their voice in their Edmonton-owned Bulletin. A look back through the years in which the city and The Bulletin have grown together, back to the days when Edmonton was a wilderness outpost on the banks of the Saskatchewan, shows how true this is.

In the building of Edmonton's cultural life as well as in its material achievements, The Bulletin has often led, it has always been a loyal working member of the communities' efforts in the things the people thought it best to do.

Now, once again, The Bulletin is taking the lead in a worthy cause. It is raising its voice on behalf of all of those of our aging citizens, who are our fathers and mothers, who have served their country well for a lifetime in industry, farm and home, and who find now that they must ask aid, that they may live the twilight of their lives in reasonable comfort and security.

The Edmonton Bulletin does not believe that our present Old Age Pension scheme is an adequate solution to their problems. There is much proof that it is outmoded and unfair.

The Bulletin is advocating that our Federal and Provincial Governments collaborate on a new and more far-reaching Social Security Plan.

You, no matter what your age today, should be vitally concerned in such legislation.

Keep informed. Read the powerful editorials on this and other issues which appear in The Bulletin every day, for when, as always, the thoughts of Edmonton are given voice, The Voice will be The Edmonton Bulletin.

Navy Mothers Pack Cookies For Sailors On Active Service

Dr. S. Erlich Tells Story Of France Escape

By SHIRLEY C. WEIR

This is a story of courage. It is the story of a woman who has had a front seat in watching history in the making. It is the story of Dr. Sasia Erlich, a city visitor from New York.

Dr. Erlich is a French Jewess who has become prominent for her social and welfare activities as president of the Zionist Organization of France.

LAST PICTURE

The last picture that Dr. Erlich carries in her mind of her beloved Paris, is one of endless columns of German troops marching triumphantly into the city. On that day, Dr. Erlich, with countless other "refugees", took what she could carry in her hands, and on foot left the country where she had been born and had always lived.

On her way, she saw great suffering and desolation. At many times bombs fell perilously close. For some time she remained in French Morocco, then she went on to Lisbon where she remained for three months before being able to get passage to the United States. She has been in New York for eight months.

Arriving in New York, Dr. Erlich was more determined than ever to continue her Zionist work. She explained that the Zionist movement was one to end the prosecution of the Jews by giving them a country of their own. She has done a great deal of lecturing in order to raise money for this work. A lawyer by profession, she has lectured in France, Belgium, Algiers, Tunis, Morocco and has visited Palestine six times. Her present tour has taken her across Canada, and her appeal has been to members of the various Hadassah organizations.

In her lectures, she tells of the results being accomplished in Palestine, and of the work that is needed to be done.

FIGHTING FOR ALLIES

The population of Palestine at the present time, is half a million. Of these, 12,000 men are now fighting in Libya for the Allied powers. Sixty-five thousand more are ready to fight as soon as a Jewish unit is formed. Since the beginning of war, 140,000 men and women have enlisted for civil and military service.

Money raised from Zionist and Hadassah work is being used to promote industries, war materials and to erect villages in Palestine.

Through Palestine villages, thousands of troops from Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand must pass on their way to Libya. Here they are sheltered and fed by loyal Jewish patriots.

FOR YOUTH WORK

Money raised is also in aid of the "Youth Aliyha". Since the war, 7,000 Jewish boys and girls have been rescued from German-dominated countries and been given shelter in Palestine. Of these 7,000, three hundred have shown their gratitude by joining the British troops fighting in Libya.

Dr. Erlich addressed members of the Edmonton chapter of the Hadassah at a luncheon in the Corona hotel on Friday. On Friday evening Mrs. E. Wershof, president of the local Hadassah chapter, will entertain at her home, when her guests invited to meet the visitor will be members of the Junior Hadassah. Dr. Erlich is a Macdonald hotel guest.

Mrs. A. Grenfell Is Speaker At Luncheon On Thursday

EDMONTON women who foregathered in the Corona hotel for luncheon on Thursday afternoon heard a graphic story of conditions in wartime England, and a story of how the British Y.W.C.A. is doing a 24-hour-a-day job for their country. The speaker was Mrs. Arthur Grenfell, president of the British Y.W.C.A.

"With the areas of coastal defence being increased, and the continued encroachment of camps, airdromes, factories and farm-lands on the lovely countryside of England, there is being effected a continuous shifting of workers from one area to another. It is to meet the needs of this great army of workers, a goodly portion of them women, that the Y.W.C.A has taken as its war job," she said.

"To provide hostels for the women workers where they can find comfort, rest and relaxation is one of the major jobs," she continued. "With the school-leaving age slipped back to 14 years there are a great number of very young workers in factories for whom intelligent and Christian leadership must be given until they find a routine for their lives. That is our job, too," she said.

Mrs. Grenfell spoke in support of the Mrs. Winston Churchill Y.W.C.A. Fund for British Service Women. "The gift of $50,000 from Canada is a fellowship gift," she said, "and it is to sustain our British Y.W.C.A. work today."

"It is not in talk but action that we can make the quality of Christian caring felt, but we can only move forward to meet the crying needs of our young people if there are enough communities who will help in, and sacrifice themselves to give that help in the practical form of money. I know that my appeal will be successful," she continued, "because I have seen it myself, that the quality of Christian service rendered by the Y.W.C.A. lifts a strain which otherwise would be unbearable in the young lives of this our fighting generation."

She was introduced by Mrs. A. D. Miller, president of the Edmonton Y.W.C.A. board of directors.

Among those present were Lady Rodney, the Countess de la Feld, Mrs. H. M. E. Evans, Miss Kathleen M. Jackson, Mrs. W. J. Dick, Mrs. George Hailes, Miss Lillian Thompson, Mrs. Mees van't Hoff of Mayerthorpe.

"Master Plan" Mustering Allied Forces In Far East

John R. Morris, veteran British United Press correspondent in the Far East, describes in the following dispatch the scene at which a "master plan" is mustering Allied strength and guiding counter-blows against Japan's offensive in the southwest Pacific. The correspondent visited and talked with commanders at United Nations headquarters.—EDITOR.

By JOHN R. MORRIS

Copyright, 1942, by British United Press and The Edmonton Bulletin

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, in Java, Jan. 30.—Allied commanders in this camouflaged supreme headquarters are using a master plan against Japan's all-out gamble for a quick victory—or certain defeat—in the southwest Pacific, the British United Press is able to disclose today.

The master plan for the Allied forces on a 5,000-mile front is already beginning to operate. It is being elaborated as rapidly as possible by men who have arranged the headquarters of the supreme command to move at lightning speed. On some fronts, results are already plainly discernible, due to such strategists as Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell and Admiral Thomas C. Hart.

The margin of Japanese military superiority already has been whittled down and this, I was told, is only the beginning.

After several days at supreme headquarters talking with key figures who for obvious reasons cannot be quoted, I am able to report that the Japanese are pursuing a policy of throwing all of the strength they were able to muster in years of preparation into an onslaught that has convinced responsible observers that the enemy knows he must win decisively in the near future or lose everything.

Against this offensive is pitted the mounting fighting strength of the Allied powers and the skill of such men as Wavell, a calm, determined figure with a monocle screwed in his eye, and Hart, a vigorous and fast-moving American sea-dog.

Under direction of supreme headquarters and sometimes at distances of thousands of miles from here, the Allied operations are holding and delaying the enemy spearheads and fighting to turn them back from objectives which are essential for success of the Japanese offensive. Elsewhere, additional strength for the eventual Allied counter-attack on a big scale is being mustered.

This headquarters "somewhere in Java" is deeply hidden and cleverly camouflaged. It fits perfectly into the natural panorama.

I met and talked with Gen. Wavell. He recalled that at Calcutta in early December we made an appointment to meet later at New Delhi, but the war's outbreak forced us to cancel the meeting.

I saw Hart as he walked from his private office to headquarters. A conference began there without delay, but there was none of the formality which a civilian might expect during a session of such high officers.

In both Wavell and Hart, the Allies have commanders who, even in war, remain human characters. It may be because neither requires a false front or unnecessary formality or ferocity.

Coast Defence, Japanese, Stir B.C. Members

OTTAWA, Jan. 30—(CP)—A Japanese invasion of Canada is probable, Howard Green (Conservative, Vancouver South) said in the House of Commons Thursday night as debate on the speech from the throne continued—mainly on the subject of conscription and the government's plebiscite proposal, but veering onto other topics at times.

Earlier in the day John M. Turner (Lib. Springfield) charged that a "group of racketeers" in Toronto was more interested in obtaining control of the government than in conscription. If they secured control they would do away with the excess profits tax, abolish price control and make the sky the limit on profits on war equipment, he said.

Mr. Green said defence forces available on the west coast are entirely inadequate to deal with an invasion, but drew a denial from Defence Minister Ralston when he said the west coast army was equipped with old American rifles which could not be fired.

Like other Conservative speakers he expressed opposition to the proposed plebiscite by which the government intends to seek release from pledges not to introduce compulsory overseas service.

George Cruickshank (Lib. Fraser Valley), on the other hand, said the plebiscite was necessary and the only honorable course, and that no man under 60 who was physically fit and did not serve in the last war ought to urge the conscription of young men.

He said he had been a believer in conscription from the outbreak of war, but considered himself bound by the pledges made by leaders of both Liberal and Conservative parties in the 1940 election.

Both Mr. Cruickshank and Mr. Green were critical of the government's handling of the Japanese population in British Columbia. Mr. Cruickshank said the minister of national defence had been badly advised, and Mr. Green said the government was too slow in setting its policy and in acting.

Mr. Green said there should be a member of the cabinet resident in British Columbia during the crisis and urged a supreme commander for military, naval and air forces on the west coast.

Assurance of a better economic order, with an end to exploitation, was urged by G. H. Castleden (C.C.F., Yorkton), as a means of improving the morale of the Canadian people.

Col. A. J. Brooks (Con., Royal) urged conscription without a plebiscite and said the fact some districts were contributing more men for the forces than other districts where men were earning high wages in industry, did not make for national unity.

Mr. Turner said that for the "group of racketeers" from Toronto, "Conscription is only a camouflage; the pay-off is control."

He spoke soon after Dr. Herbert Bruce (Con., Toronto-Parkdale) described the persons comprising the Committee for Total War, organized at Toronto recently, as men and women who represent practically every public and patriotic organization in Ontario and include many political and personal friends of the present government.

Dr. Bruce expressed opposition to the plebiscite proposed in the Speech from the Throne as a means of releasing the government from its anti-conscriptionist pledges, and said that if Prime Minister Mackenzie King were not prepared to live up to the responsibilities of his office he should make way for another leader.

"I think I would myself decline to vote unless the Prime Minister gave a definite undertaking to bring in compulsory selective service if he receives an affirmative vote," he said.

Dr. Bruce said there could be no doubt of the views of eight provinces on compulsory service overseas, and if the province of Quebec were against it, he suggested, that province could be exempted.

Old Man Winter Again Forestalled

Old Man Winter's attempt to regain his prestige among city residents fell by the wayside when the threatening snowfall failed to materialize. Until press time Friday the amount of snowfall was almost negligible with a total precipitation of .01 inches reported. Most of this light fall melted as it fell.

Possibly the most threatening evidence of winter returning soon is a reading of 26 below at Dawson. All northern Alberta points, however, continue to show above zero readings with Athabasca's reading of 22 above the warmest.

Edmonton's high was 26 and the low 16 Thursday's average was 24 above.

Keeping Warm, Not Battle, Is Job In Russia

By A. T. STEELE

Copyright, 1942, by the Chicago Daily News and The Edmonton Bulletin

MOSCOW, Jan. 30—It's easy to sit next to the radiator in a Moscow hotel and write about the Russian cold. But it was not until I had spent a couple of days with the Russian army in the field that I got any real idea of what intense cold does to a war.

At 40 below zero, the chief concern of millions of men fighting in Russia is not the scream of shells or the whistle of bullets, but the primitive problem of keeping warm. For the men in the field that is a problem that dominates their thoughts 24 hours a day.

A. T. Steele

Any relaxation in the struggle means frostbite—and frostbite means hospitalization or death. It's a silent, creeping, numbing enemy that hits at the extremities and works inward, if not checked.

GERMANS SUFFER

For the soldier fighting in the open, without cover, the explosion of shells and bombs nearby are not half as alarming as the realization that all sensation has left the toes, or fingers, or nose. And this is a common experience, especially among the inadequately uniformed Germans.

Behind the front the Russian soldier lives in snug, subsurface dugouts, usually heated with portable stoves or ovens made of oil drums. Roofed with logs, earth and fresh snow, these shelters would be undistinguishable from the landscape were it not for black plumes of smoke which billow into the outside whiteness from their chimney holes. Travelling along the Moscow-Smolensk highway toward the front, I saw many groups of these puffing, man-made fumeholes—a kind of Russian "valley of 10,000 smokes".

Nearer the front the cold is a vastly more serious problem. There the troops must fight, crawl and lie in the open, and plow through snow ranging from two to three feet in depth and for warmth they gather around open fires.

DAYS ARE SHORT

The days are short and the sun, when it breaks through the powdery mist which seems to characterize the Russian winter, burns with a cold glare, shedding light but giving no warmth. The snow-blanketed fields and forests along the road to the front are lined with winter's bleak manifestations—occasional German tanks and trucks half buried in the snow, Russian trucks with fires burning under their engines to warm them, a few bodies of men and horses stiff as granite and glazed with ice.

I passed thousands of uniformed workmen—Russian labor battalions—clearing the roads, repairing bridges, and restoring the gauge of railway tracks altered by the Germans. With their faces often masked to protect their chins and noses, these padded figures could be identified one from another only by their eyes.

In such weather the traditional Russian beard serves a useful function. Red army men are clean shaven except for those who sport mustaches, but whiskers are still popular with the peasants. On the country roads they sometimes have the appearance of well refrigerated apparitions, with heavy frost clinging to their beards, eyebrows and even eyelashes.

I met some peasant families returning to their recaptured villages with sleigh loads of belongings. For most of them there is nothing to return to. The retreating Germans have systematically burned the evacuated villages to the ground. Many are living like hibernating bears in underground shelters in the forests.

Horse-drawn sledges have largely replaced motorized transport on sectors of the front off the main highways. Russian horses, small, hardy and thick-haired, seem able to stand up to the severe winter better than the German type. Red army men claim that the Germans have suffered heavy losses of draft animals from freezing.

OH, FOR THE TROPICS

Your correspondent travelled to the front in comparative comfort in a closed car, but the comfort was relative, not real. For this expedition he wore two suits of underwear, one set of pyjamas, two pairs of pants, one rabbit-skin vest, one woolen vest, one sweater, one coat, one overcoat, two pairs of socks, one pair of shoes, one pair of overshoes and a fur hat. For the first time in his life he went to bed with his boots on. And still he was never really warm. Oh, for a night in the tropics!

To realize Hitler's colossal blunder in failing properly to equip his troops for the winter campaign in Russia, it is necessary only to see and talk to the prisoners taken by the Russians. On Monday, at Mozhaisk, 10 captives taken within the past several days were brought out for inspection.

It was hard to believe that these unhappy man were representatives of the leading Axis power. The clothes and boots they wore were of fair quality and well suited to summer and autumn operations but wholly unsuitable for Russian winter. Their overcoats were too light, their boots too thin and the only coverings on their heads were thin knitted, woolen skullcaps which came down over their ears and chins. Also these were perched service caps.

When we asked them what caused them to surrender, a 21-year-old youth from the Rhineland piped up with the remark, "It's such a long war and too cold."

"Kalt" seemed to have become the most frequent word in their vocabularies. One told us his company was averaging casualties of three to four daily, frostbite taking more victims than battlegrounds.

KNEW NOTHING OF TYPHUS

These prisoners ranged from 21 to 43 years of age but most were about 30. All had seen service in France. They said they had heard nothing of any epidemic of typhus or other disease in the German army but that digestive and intestinal ailments were common. Supplies were sometimes irregular. Several of them carried leaflets dropped by Soviet planes which bore on one side a cartoon of Hitler standing over a fallen German soldier and on the other a pass guaranteeing safety on surrender.

BARRHEAD, Alta., Jan. 30.—At a mass protest meeting under the chairmanship of E. F. Watherson it was decided to send the following telegram to Prime Minister King and the M. P. for the riding, to the following effect:

"A mass meeting of citizens of Barrhead and district demand immediate conscription of manpower without referendum, together with complete governmental control of all industry as to profits and output in order to eliminate unnecessary expense and perhaps fatal delay."

It was reported at the meeting that it was hoped other ridings will act similarly.

Ottawa Meeting Urges Increase In Farm Income

By JAMES McCOOK

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—(CP)—The safeguarding of experienced labor for the farm, increases in farm income, and creation of an agricultural board made up of representatives of government and organized agriculture were advocated by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture at its annual meeting Thursday.

Suggestions of the federation to bring maximum food production in wartime will be presented by federation representatives to the federal cabinet Monday.

The federation, claiming to represent 350,000 organized farmers throughout Canada, will urge representation of farmers on the wartime prices and trade board and other boards dealing with matters vital to agriculture.

FARM LABOR

By resolution, the federation urged that experienced labor be left on the farms, and the income of farmers be increased by subsidies or by prices regulated to permit payment of wages sufficiently attractive to keep experienced help on the land.

Where export of any farm commodity was restricted, compensation should be provided by setting domestic prices, the federation said.

Eskimo Ski Club Assists Developments

In spite of a comparatively short existence, the Eskimo Ski Club, located in the headquarters opposite While Mud Creek, on the north bank of the Saskatchewan River, has contributed much towards educating Edmonton's young and old citizenry into the delights of one of the world's oldest sports.

Eskimo members have set up an enviable record in winning honors in Dominion, provincial and zone ski meets. Prominent skiers have carried the club's colors to many corners of the skiing world.

The original club was organized in December, 1932, by a handful of Scandinavians who had a desire to continue the sport they loved in this homeland. Executive of the first club was President Harold Frammerild, Hans Kyseth as vice-president and Reidar Torp as secretary. The membership that first year only consisted of a dozen hardy members, and although there was another ski club registered in Edmonton it has been inactive for several years, and the Eskimo Ski Club started the revival of skiing here. Next year, in 1933, the Eskimo club built a jump on Varsity hill and held several competitions.

Seven members of the club that year are now serving in the forces, while two are still active in the present day ski club.

Banff Ski Carnival Attracts Fans

Fresh Fall Of Snow Gives Better Surface Than For Many Years

With an up-to-the-minute report of eight inches of additional snow covering the already fine slopes of Banff's made-for-skiing mountains, members of Edmonton's skiing fraternity were looking forward Friday to spending one of the most successful jaunts ever recorded here, as the fifth annual ski train moves into the mountain resort, leaving here February 7.

The train will leave the Edmonton C.P.R. depot at 11.35 p.m. Feb. 7, and arrive in Banff early the next day. It is expected that more than 200 city and district ski fans will participate. The train is sponsored by the Northern Alberta Ski Zone, the Eskimo Ski club and the Edmonton Ski club.

Every type of skiing is offered on the varied slopes of Mount Norquay. The day can be equally enjoyed by novice skiers, who can have a "whale of a time" on the numerous nursery slopes, and by the experts on the fast, high-speed downhill runs.

OTHER DIVERSIONS

Not just skiing will be offered those travelling on the ski train. The Upper Hot Springs sulphur pool will be open to the visitors; so will toboggan slides and the skating rink. The famous sulphur pool is open until 5.30 p.m. on the Sunday.

Weather and snow conditions for skiing at Banff have been "tops" so far this year and it is expected the skiers on the Feb. 7 ski train from here will be greeted by vast stretches of ideal "powder" snow for their day at the resort.

FINE ATTRACTION

A ski tow, the only one in western Canada, on Mount Norquay, is one of the finer attractions for the skier. The tow operates on what is termed the "straight tow rope" plan and carries skiers from the bottom of the slopes to a height of 1,000 feet.

Not the least of the attractions on the annual ski trains is the fun-packed journey to and from the resort. The high-spirited skiing enthusiasts in past years have enjoyed sing-songs, impromptu comic skits and general frolicking during the trip.

Travellers wanting a good sleep in preparation for the strenuous day's activities on the mountain slopes can purchase a berth at a small additional cost. Officials in charge of the train advise those wishing to obtain a berth to make early application at the C.P.R. ticket office.

GET MEALS

Skiers will be served three meals while away. Breakfast will be served in the Palliser hotel at Calgary at 6.30 p.m. Sunday. Lunch will be served in the new, commodious $10,000 club house at Mount Norquay at noon. The skiers will be served supper at the end of their day's skiing. It will be at the Mount Royal or King Edward hotels in the town of Banff.

Also in the all-inclusive fare is bus transportation from Banff station to the base of Mount Norquay slopes. On the way back to town skiers can take the "Gully Run." The "Gully Run" should not be taken by novice skiers. They can obtain bus transportation back to the hotel for supper.

Inter-city slalom races for the J. B. Cross cup will be one of the main features of the afternoon. The trophy, emblematic of skiing supremacy between Edmonton and Calgary, was won by an Edmonton team of skiers last year. This was the first time the cup had been brought to this city.

Laboratory equipment, operating tables, X-ray equipment, surgical instruments, anti-gas ointment, stretchers, dental supplies and false teeth are a few of the medical supplies purchased by the Department of Munitions and Supply for the armed services.

Climax of the evening will be the crowning of the Edmonton carnival queen. Two contestants are entered; Aileen Johnstone of the Edmonton Ski Club and Peggy Ross of the Eskimo Ski Club.

Ballots will be marked by persons attending the Snow Ball, results tabulated and the ceremony conducted. The queen presides over the ski train to Banff and is next year's city candidate for the honors of Banff Carnival queen.

Ski Club Has Large Role In City Sports

For more than 30 years, the Edmonton Ski Club has played a major share in promoting the interests of the popular winter sport in the city and district. With the advent of 1942, the organization marked its 39th anniversary.

At the organization meeting held December 19, 1911, the late Major Fiorn was elected president and other charter members were H. G. Sorenson, Hans Hougan, E. Bolaing, Olaf Olson, H. Lilleboe, O. L. Sven and John Hougan.

To mark the 30th anniversary, the club held a banquet and dance at the Corona hotel Saturday, January 24. Actually the anniversary fell on December 19, but the banquet was held at the later date because more of the older members of the club were able to attend at that time.

LOOKING BACK

Looking back over the years, pioneers of the sport have reason to feel gratified at the great progress made and at the popularity attained by this form of winter activity.

First tournament held by the Edmonton Ski club took place in the winter of 1911-12 on the Municipal Golf Course hill and the following year Grassy hill was the venue.

"Then," Johnny Hougan, present secretary of the club, recalls, "someone got a brain wave to build a scaffold on Connor's hill. Some of the best tournaments seen anywhere were held there and Canadian records were set, although they have been broken many times since. The Connor's hill jump was used until 1928-28, when the scaffold was found to be unsafe and had to be torn down—a bad blow to the club.

"After dismantling of the scaffold use of different hills around the city had to be resorted to—Municipal, Grassy, Highlands and other places where skiing could be practised.

"With increased interest in the sport, demands for better facilities became stronger and culminated, in 1936, in construction of the present jump at Connor's hill. Since then the jump has been improved every year and the hill now offers about everything a skier could ask for — slalom, downhill and jumping can be carried on all at the same time."

Weather conditions have handicapped the club throughout the present winter, but the members have held numerous social functions and are still hopeful of getting in some really good skiing before spring.

Heads Club

William Kensit, who as president of the Edmonton Ski Club, will be one of the main officials of this year's train trip to the snowy summits of Banff's popular snow-clad hills.

Central Radiator & Tire Service

Located at 10165 99th St. is the Central Radiator and Tire Service, operated by J. D. Potts, who for the past 38 years has been prominent in the Edmonton business field.

Born in Wigtownshire, Scotland, he came to Canada in 1904, settling here in Edmonton. His first work in this city was that of a teamster and farmer. In 1915 he enlisted with the Canadian army, serving in the First Great War.

Returning to Edmonton after the armistice he opened a trucking business and in May, 1932, he entered his present field of operation, starting in business at 100A St. and 103rd Ave. In 1933, owing to business expansion, Mr. Potts moved into larger quarters, his present site being 10165 99th St. Here one will find all the modern equipment that makes his work in radiator and service so very outstanding. Included in this equipment is a tire mould believed to be the only one of its kind in western Canada, able to take any size tractor tire. With war restriction on tires and radiators Mr. Potts suggests that car and truck drivers take extra special care of their present equipment. Don't put-off your needed repairs, but consult this highly specialized concern. In this way you are assured longer life and better wear. Every courtesy will be given to your request for tire and radiator information at 10165 99th St.

The graduates, eight in number, are from a class of about 35 now taking similar courses under a joint scheme of training set up by the Dominion Provincial Youth Training Plan and the R.C.A.F.

The course is open to all young men who are unable to meet scholastic requirements for enlistment as air crew members. They must of course possess all other qualifications before being permitted to take the course.

Mental Tests Are Proving Worth While

are just starting to join up now," he said.

Dr. Falconer is enthusiastic over the way these mental alertness tests are working out. It is in the positive direction toward the magic uncovering of submerged talents that the tests are really proving their worth.

They are searching out the tiny gleam of light that was hidden beneath many a bushel. They are discovering talents the individual in question did not know he or she possessed.

In this connection, Dr. Falconer told of the case of a young woman who had lived for many years in the remote hinterland of the province. She came to the city to join the C.W.A.A.F. Not realizing that she possessed any special ability she applied to enlist for general duty services. This is the class of work at which all persons without any special training are put.

"This girl scored an almost perfect mental alertness test. She showed a better score than any university graduates," Dr. Falconer said.

"We then interviewed her and learned she had studied wireless telegraphy.

RESPONSIBLE POSITION

"That young woman now holds a responsible position as a wireless operator-airth one of the large airlines. If it had not been for the mental alertness tests she would have been doing ordinary general work. The airline company was very glad to secure her services at the present time," Dr. Falconer said.

The tests are not automatically infallible, Dr. Falconer explained. But results to date show a high dependability.

"If conscription comes these tests will be used in selecting personnel throughout all branches of the armed services, placing specialized men where they are properly suited," the doctor predicted.

Three years of research went into the test now used. The army is already starting to make use of it and soon it may be used by the navy.

They would be equally useful in selecting persons for civilian occupations.

CAUSE MORE WORK

The tests cause a whole lot more work at the recruiting office, but save plenty of time and grief too, later on.

When a recruit discloses he or she possesses unusual alertness an interview follows. In the interview is ascertained just what kind of work the person would be suited to.

FO. Archie Muir, who conducts the R.C.A.F. mobile recruiting unit is sold 100 per cent on the mental alertness tests.

"The tests may not be exact but there is one thing we can be sure of by experience. A high test means there is good material and a low one means just the opposite. That has been demonstrated beyond doubt since they were inaugurated," FO. Muir said.

Co-eds at the University of Alberta were thrilled Thursday afternoon when Miss Winifred Kydd, C.B.E., M.A., visited the campus and spoke to them. Earlier she was entertained at tea by the Wauneita Society.

Receiving with Miss Kydd were Miss Florence E. Dodd, dean of women; and Miss Helen Warnock, president of the society.

INVITED GUESTS

Among the invited guests were Mrs. William Aberhart, Mrs. Robert Newton, Mrs. W. A. R. Kerr, Mrs. E. C. Pardee, Mrs. P. S. Warren, Mrs. G. C. Higgin, Mrs. Herbert Paterson and Miss Alberta Hastie.

Miss Mabel Patrick presided at the tea urns. Servers were Miss Evelyn Peterson, Miss Mary Barbara Mason, Miss Margaret Ferguson, Miss Gladys Vickery, Miss Peggy Redmond and Miss Doris Williams.

Following the tea, Miss Kydd spoke in Convocation Hall on "Youth and the Future."

"This afternoon," said Miss Kydd, "I am going to place before you some ideas. If any one of them promotes discussion among you I shall have succeeded in my purpose."

TO BE A LEADER

Today, according to Miss Kydd, every co-ed graduating from the university must train herself to be a leader, a leader in the women's war services; in the teaching profession; in the home where the finest and most fundamental type of leadership can be developed or in the organization's auxiliary or formal education such as the Girl Guides.

"Work today," said Miss Kydd, "is of the heart, the head and hands. The good leader must have an idealistic foundation, the heart; a well stored mind, the head; and practical methods, the hands."

One of the greatest dangers of today, according to Miss Kydd, is the dividing of the women power into definite age groups for by so doing is lost the unity of purpose which must be characteristic of all leaders.

Miss Kydd stressed the need of building for a peace to follow the war. "The youth must be trained now to build for the new civilization which we foresee now and will take part in later."

Budget Ready For Council In March

Instructions were issued Friday by City Comptroller A. A. Campbell to superintendents of civic departments to have their 1942 estimates ready for submission to the city commissioners by Feb. 10 next.

City Commissioner John Hodgson said he expected to be ready to present the annual budget to city council in late March. Revision of the departmental estimates would take about one month, he stated.

In submitting their estimates, department heads have been asked to keep them to the nearest dollar, omitting the odd cents. They are requested to submit the name, occupation and rate of pay of each employee.

Continental Life Company Makes Report

In his address to the annual meeting of the Continental Life Insurance Company today, the President, John W. Hobbs, opened his remarks with an expression of satisfaction with regard to the year's operations of the company. He stated that there had been substantial increases in all departments.

The amount of business in force now stands at $46,204,981, an increase of $1,904,096 in the year. The total receipts for the year 1941 reached the sum of $1,980,424.09, and the total assets now stand at $11,231,186.33, both figures being the highest on record. He further reported that notwithstanding the tendency towards lower interest rates, the average interest rate earned by the company during the year on its investments was slightly higher than for 1940. The mortality experience was slightly in excess of the average for recent years; as yet no exceptional losses having arisen as a result of the war.

COMPANY PROGRESSES

In speaking of the company's progress during the year, N. J. Lander, managing director, stated that in keeping with the experience of life insurance companies generally in Canada, the Continental Life had gone forward in 1941; sound sales, which accelerated sharply towards the end of the year, continued in January, 1942, well in excess of the corresponding period of last year. Insurances which became terminated in the year were less than for any in the past several years.

The balance sheet reflects the strengthened position of the company; the net ledger assets being increased by the amount of $617,701.00 in the year reached the total of $10,932,150 at the year end, and are classified by percentages of the whole, as follows:

Real estate, 7.950 per cent; first mortgages and agreements for sales, 17.572 per cent; bonds and debentures, 47.985 per cent; stocks, preferred and common, 12.620 per cent; policy loans, 11.029 per cent; cash in bank, 2.844 per cent. Total, 100.000 per cent. After writing down of assets by $38,437.66 the total admitted assets amounted to $11,231,186 on December 31, 1941.

PREMIUM INCOME

The total premium income and annuity considerations received were $1,349,024, from which was paid $69,333 for reinsurances, leaving net premium receipts amounting to $1,279,691. Other receipts consisting of amounts left on deposit with the company by policyholders and beneficiaries in the amount of $169,651 and interest, rents, etc., of $531,081, brought the total receipts $1,980.42.

Haltain Passes In East Friday At Age 84 Years

MONTREAL, Jan. 30 — (CP) — Sir Frederick Haultain, 84, chief justice of Saskatchewan for 26 years and premier of the North-West Territories from 1891 to 1905, died at his home here today after a lengthy illness.

Sir Frederick, whose health had been robust during his long life, suffered an attack of jaundice Dec. 1. He rallied and enjoyed Christmas but later suffered a relapse and his illness was complicated by other ailments. His condition steadily grew critical until his death early today.

Official Gives Timely Tire Tips

OSHAWA, Jan. 30. — Moderate over-inflation is recommended; not for currency, but for tires. Because of rubber rationing, service engineers of General Motors have drawn prompt attention to a number of things a car owner can do to assist the war program and to conserve rubber.

"We realize," says N. H. Daniel, service engineer, "that higher inflation of tires will cause a harder ride. It will, however, prolong tire life and we would recommend moderate pressure increases of, say, two to three pounds above our regular specifications.

"Acquire the habit of checking inflation pressures daily. Always check the pressure before starting on a drive rather than afterwards. The tire builds up heat as it is run, consequently the pressure after a drive may be greater than before a drive without actually adding any air. Never drive under-inflated tires. Actual tests show that two pounds under-inflation will cause as much as 15 per cent faster wear."

TIRE CONSERVATION

is of Vital Importance to Every Canadian

Our rubber supplies are in jeopardy. Canada and her Allies must have rubber for the armed forces, for factories, for ships. Already drastic steps have been taken by your Government to conserve existing stocks. Tire sales have been prohibited except for essential needs. But Government action is not the whole answer. Every Canadian must do his part. The necessity is imperative. This day and in the days to come Canada expects every citizen to do his duty.

HERE ARE THE ANSWERS TO YOUR QUESTIONS ABOUT

RUBBER:

Question: How serious is the rubber situation?
Answer: Because facts of value to our enemies cannot be revealed, published reports have been conflicting and sometimes inaccurate. The shortage is so grave it can truly be said that anyone hoarding rubber or using it unnecessarily is committing an act of disloyalty.

Question: Can we obtain more crude rubber?
Answer: Not at present, except from our Allies who need it as badly as we do.

Question: What about sources other than the Pacific?
Answer: All other sources, including U.S. synthetic production, represent only a very small percentage of our needs.

Question: What is rubber needed for in the war effort?
Answer: For thousands of articles. Here are only a few:

Gas masks	Insulation
Tank tracks	Life preservers
Fire hose	Surgical supplies
Tires	Telephone lines

Question: Who is now permitted to buy new tires?
Answer: Only doctors, visiting nurses, police and fire departments, certain other public services, owners of farm and factory trucks, and certain others. A list of "eligible" vehicles is posted in every garage in Canada or it can be obtained from the Controller of Supplies, Department of Munitions and Supply, Ottawa.

Question: What can I do to help?
Answer: Whenever you contemplate using your car ask yourself, "In fairness to our fighting services can I really say this trip is necessary?" If you must use your car, drive carefully and keep your tires in good condition.

Question: How else can I help?
Answer: When you buy anything, carry it with you. All retail suppliers, including bread, milk, coal, and ice dealers, are denied new tires for transporting goods to your home.

Question: What happens to my worn-out tires?
Answer: Before discarding a tire, try to get it repaired or retreaded. If it is beyond repair it can be "reclaimed" to make new rubber articles. The law provides heavy penalties for burning, cutting, or destroying any tire or tube, including bicycle tires and tubes. If you have old tires it is your patriotic duty to turn them over to a garage man or scrap dealer. If you own any "eligible" vehicle you must turn in your old tire or tube before you can purchase a new one. No turn-in allowance will be given.

Question: What about the guarantee on my tires?
Answer: Your dealer will give you details, but broadly speaking, all guarantees on tires sold up to December 11, 1941, are replaced by limited guarantees of not more than 90 days. All new guarantees are for 90 days.

Question: How can I save my tires?
Answer: Above all, by not using your car, by sharing trips with neighbours, by employing other means of transportation, including your own good legs. Here are eight rules for tire preservation:

1. Maintain recommended air pressure at all times.
2. Shift tires from wheel to wheel every few thousand miles.
3. Never take corners at high speed.
4. Never slam on the brakes—except to avoid an accident.
5. Have wheel alignments checked regularly.
6. Drive slowly.
7. Start gently. Never spin the wheels.
8. Keep the tires away from curbs.

Question: Can I buy used or retreaded tires?
Answer: Yes, but only if you prove your need.

Question: What happens to anyone who illegally buys or sells a tire, or otherwise contravenes any of the regulations regarding tires, casings and tubes?
Answer: Penalties for infractions of Order C.S. 4F may be as high as a $5,000 fine, or five years' imprisonment, or both. Copies of the order are posted in every garage, or may be obtained from the Controller of Supplies.

DRIVE SLOWLY, DRIVE CAREFULLY, DRIVE LESS, HELP WIN THE WAR

REFUGEE — By Vida Hurst

CHAPTER XXXIV

At precisely five minutes after three o'clock the buzzer sounded. Nana pressed the button releasing the downstairs door and ran to the inner door to listen for Steve's footsteps. He was approaching slowly, muffling his tread as much as possible so that he would not disturb the other tenants. Nana waited impatiently then the top of Steve's head appeared. His eyes were bloodshot and smudged with black circles but he was smiling.

In his arms she saw now that he was carrying the unconscious figure of a child. Nicky? Nana stifled the impulse to cry his name as she closed and bolted the door behind them.

Running to Steve she snatched the sleeping baby from his arms pressing him close.

"Better put him to bed, Nana. He's worn out. Poor little tike!"

Nicky's face was streaked with dirt and tears. An ugly scratch ran down one cheek. But he was sleeping so soundly he did not move as Nana tucked him beneath the covers.

"Let's go to the kitchen," she suggested. "I've made coffee and have some biscuits ready to bake. There's some cereal, too, if you want it."

Steve followed and Nana waited until he had seated himself at the kitchen table before she asked, "Where did you find him?"

JAMES

"It's a long story," Steve replied. "You see, Nana, when I went to the Crawford's I discovered that James had reminded them of the little old man you had insisted upon picking up. I remembered too that you had said James was not his real name.

"Then I kept thinking of the girl who was with him the other night. I knew I had seen that girl before and I finally remembered where. Her name had been in our paper not long ago in connection with a pro-Nazi demonstration. I had covered the story myself or I probably wouldn't have remembered her. My hunch was that she might have been the girl driving the car and that James was in cahoots with her. The little old man who had done the dirty work had been hired by them in order to throw suspicion upon you."

"But how could they find him? The same old man I talked to!" Nana asked.

"It wasn't the same old man, darling! I had an idea that the man they hired wasn't really old. The way he pushed that strapping nurse maid around proved that he was strong and probably young under the disguise he must have worn."

"Steve, you're wonderful." Nana cried round-eyed.

"I had come to this conclusion the night I telephoned you but the catch was I couldn't remember the gal's name or where she lived. The Crawfords threw me out so I had no chance to discuss it with them or to search James' room for her telephone number. Mercedes was furious with me for recommending you in the first place. The poor girl was nearly crazy and snatching at any clue no matter how ridiculous. But when I remembered where I had seen the lady in the red dress it was fairly simple. All I had to do was look up the back file of the paper until I found the account I had written myself, which gave her name. It took me another day to find out where she lived. She had moved, of course, a week or so ago and when I traced her to the new address she had just left for a vacation with her brother.

"The mention of a brother was all I needed. I was sure he must be the kidnapper. At the same time I discovered this I heard that you were being held for questioning but I hadn't time to do anything about it. I knew they had nothing on you and I had to find that other couple before it was too late."

Nana nodded her approval, forgetting her own anxious moments. It had been worth it to know that Nicky was safe.

GIRL IN SUNBONNET

"The girl had come from a small mountain town not far from a private hunting lodge which is closed at this time of the year. I took a chance on her returning to a familiar spot but not her own town. So I began to ask at various oil stations along the road. There had been a young man and woman with a little girl in a sunbonnet. I immediately suspected it was Nicky. Naturally they would attempt to conceal his face since it had been published in every paper."

Nana was so impressed that she spilled the coffee she was pouring.

"That was all there was to it," Steve continued. "I went up to this deserted lodge and began to snoop around. It didn't take me long to find out that someone was hiding there. The brother had worked there during the hunting season so was familiar with the place."

"But, Steve, there were two of them. How did you get Nicky away from them?"

"By the process of elimination," he grinned. "I took care of the brother first while he was prowling around outside. Then I went in and forgot I was a gentleman."

"You mean you killed them?"

"Nope. Just knocked them out and tied them up with some good stout rope until I could get to a telephone. As a matter of fact the lady was harder to handle than the man. He was a coward if ever there was one. She was the brains of the team and she had been composing a ransom letter which I picked up along with Nicky. I telephoned my story of course, and here we are."

"Didn't you telephone the Crawfords?"

"No. The paper will take care of that. I told Woody I'd bring Nicky here."

"Woody!" she cried. "Do you mean you gave that story to the Express after all you've said?"

"Didn't intend to," Steve confessed. "But when I got to the telephone I just naturally called that number. Habit, I guess."

THE EXPRESS

Nana knew better but she did not embarrass him by saying so. Steve wanted to work for the Express. In spite of his quarrel with Betsy it was his paper and he couldn't bear to give his scoop to anyone else. Did this mean that he had also forgiven Betsy? Probably, Nana decided. Well, Betsy deserves him. She had played the game herself. Doing all she could to help her rival. Nana must tell Steve about that, but not yet. He was too tired and too full of his own experience.

The biscuits were ready now and Nana drew the pan from the oven, proud of their fluffiness. Who would have dreamed that she, Nana Du Vall, could ever make biscuits like that. Steve ate them matter of factly. He said, "Swell, Nana, I sure was hungry."

She was the one he came to when he was tired and hungry but it was Betsy of course he loved. One could not have everything, Nana thought sadly. At least she would never forget the sight of Steve relaxed and happy eating cereal and biscuits at her kitchen table.

Then she heard a sound which put Steve and everything else out of her mind. It was a plaintive little voice saying, "Why can't I have something to eat, too?"

What To Do

1-30

Your health is all important at this time. The demands on your time are greater than ever before, and lack of sleep causes the body to disintegrate. Keep a healthy frame of mind and avoid worry, as any forms of mental distress work on your physical well-being.

If you keep your body clean—your hair shining and your teeth gleaming, your mental outlook will be brighter. A dull outward appearance tends to depress us mentally, as does the wearing of somber, dull clothes. So give your spirits a "lift" by wearing bright colorful clothing. Get plenty of sleep—and keep smiling.

MORE FREE WATER

According to an eminent doctor, the body tissues of men carry 10 per cent. more free water than do the body cells of women.

STRAWBERRY PRODUCTION

Strawberry production in the United States for 1941 was estimated at 8,800,000 crates, as compared with 8,110,000 crates during 1940.
